When you are far from home some other fellow's home is a welcome place, especially if the other fellow's home is the home of the parents of an intimate friend. Guess that is why Jimmy Watkins, of Balboa, and his wife, enjoyed so much the visit with Tommy Halliwell's parents at Bolton in Lancashire, England, on their arrival from Cardiff. The Santa Ana man had previously informed the Watkinses of the locality of his parents. Jimmy took up the correspondence on his arrival in England, and when he arrived in Bolton the Halliwells met him at the depot and for three days he enjoyed the Halliwells' hospitality. Naturally the English parents inquired about the son, and I hope the Balboa boy used the California finesse in reporting the lad's activities.

There's a New Deal at the post-office, introduced by Postmaster Frank Harwood, Assistant Postmaster Flake Smith and willing assistants from the regular force. Why, I didn't know the old place this morning when I went in to get my usual i. o. u. The lobby was decorated from Alpha to Omega. Nice strips of red and white forming a canopy, or "squirrel". It was impressively different in postoffice, believe it or not, and it looked good to me. Sort of "Christmas" atmosphere.

I want to thank Capt. Henry Meehan of the Department of Motor Vehicles for an appreciative letter. I can get him the news this way quicker than I can by mail, and I wouldn't want him to get the Scotch idea, but this method saves me three cents postage. That's what "recessions" do to you.

Those safe and sane, beautiful and appropriate electric illuminated Christmas trees, are appearing in windows and on lawns to lend their influence to the holiday season. We have the glow but it is too far away to be of commercial or sentimental use for the season. However, many miss the fleecy flakes during the Christmas time. Understand the Edison company is stimulating the outdoor illumination of trees by offering prizes. To those whose Christmas may be meager, or less, the lighted trees give some pleasure. I hope they will brighten the pathway to a happy day for everybody.

And then there was the customer who bought ten cents worth of breakfast. He walked right in and walked right out again without paying nearly as much attention to the cashier as he would to a brunette. Few minutes later the old mentality started to percolate, and ten cents went into the conscience fund, or the cash register.

It is almost too late to do your Christmas shopping early, so do it as early as you can.

Ailing friend comes in for advice—and medicine. Not holding an M. D. or a P. D. Q. I could only say that a friend of a friend of mine told another friend if he would take TNT or just straight poison he wouldn't have any recurrence of his trouble. However, I did venture most cautiously that I had overcome a similar ailment not superinduced by a flow of cocktails, by using a mild recovery solution which did not interfere with the usual routine. All of which means that my friend had a bilious spell.

And then there was the fellow who was in a tight spot and the government helped him out. Then a few years later he met his obligations and heeded out the government, but he still has something coming, "if and when." What he could use now he won't get for several years. Maybe there won't be any Santa Claus by that time.

Few friends gets a "Mickey Mousey" off the Christmas tree, and it doesn't frighten her. Most nice do. They take a girl off her feet and put her on a chair quicker than you can say Jack Robinson or (Continued from Page 1)

DALE HEADS NEW PARTY LINE-UP

Deposed Assembly
Leaders in Roster

The Orange county Democratic party split wide open last night. Deposed leaders of the California Assembly of Democrats, unseated in a sudden uprising two weeks ago, completed formation of an organization to be known as the Democratic clubs of Orange County, boasting representation from every section of the county.

Included in the roster of charter members are the names of more than 20 former vice chairmen of the assembly. The new club will be headed by Chester I. Dale, deposed leader of the assembly, who was unanimously elected as chairman of the new group.

BY-LAWS DRAWN UP
By-laws for the Democratic clubs were drawn up by State Senator Harry Westover, whose victorious campaign was headed by Dale last year, and Lloyd S. Verry, well known Fullerton attorney.

BOARD ON JURY CARPET

With all five county supervisors on the carpet, grand jurors today swung into the second lap of their investigation of Supervisor N. E. West's charges against public officials.

West's accusations over the officials' fees, and the board's refusal to act on recommendations for the juvenile home were discussed yesterday afternoon at a lengthy session of the inquirers. FIRE SEVERE
After West had testified for two hours and a half, the other four members of the board were summoned. They went into the jury room together after West had left and did not give recorded testimony.

Rumor had it, however, that West had been under rather severe fire; and that the other four supervisors again disclaimed responsibility for West's stand on the fee question.

WEST TO RETURN
Following the supervisors' hour-long discussion with the jury, two members of the county probation committee, Albert Sitton, chairman, and S. C. Hartman, of Fullerton, talked with jurors for two hours.

Jurors will gather again tomorrow to continue their investigation. West will return for further questioning, possibly at that time and possibly next week.

ROBINSONS 'SPIES'?

MOSCOW. (AP)—The government newspaper Izvestia said today that Soviet authorities were searching for Mr. and Mrs. Donald L. Robinson, with the intention of arresting the mysterious couple. This, Izvestia asserted, indicated the man and woman were suspected of spying.

Will, Leaving $10,000, Written In 31 Words

The late Fred C. Benjamin, who died Dec. 2 in Anaheim, wasted no words in leaving his large estate to two nephews.

In 31 words, Mr. Benjamin wrote a will last Feb. 27, of which probate was asked in a superior court petition yesterday afternoon.

Elmer Hamilton of Anaheim named executor of the will, filed the petition. He and Roy Hamilton of Hawthorne are devisees in the will, and are to share the estate, which was estimated at more than $10,000.

Four Highways Santa Ana Needs

(Editorial)

Look at this highway map. On it an artist has drawn dotted lines showing four new highways proposed or under construction in Orange county.

These four highways should be completed if Santa Ana is to continue its rapid growth as a retail shopping center.

The history of every merchandising city proves that its progress and prosperity are largely in proportion to the number of people who find it easy to drive to town and shop.

It is hard now for the people of several thriving, important areas in Orange county to drive directly and easily to Santa Ana because the routes linking them with this city are either round-about or not properly improved.

The four dotted line highways shown on the map would remedy this bad condition and open up new trading area for Santa Ana, benefiting all the communities

MULLENDORE DENIES ANY COMPLICITY

'Turn in Man Who Beat Me,' Lake Demands

Completely conflicting statements were issued today over the Willard Lake "beef" beating. "Unless Tiny Mullendore has a streak of yellow down his back he'll go down to the police station and turn in the fellow that slugged me!"

"He and Jones both know him, despite what they say."

Willard Lake, Santa Ana contractor who was slugged and beaten by an unidentified man late last Friday, as the climax of a union row, today told the story of his assault, accused Orange county labor organizations of fostering "beef squads," and denied reports made by union officials following the fracas.

T. H. Jones, secretary of the teamsters' union, denied again that either he or R. G. Mullendore, business agent for the union, knew Lake's assailant.

Jones said the man came into the office a few moments before (Continued on Page 2, Col. 6)

HOT SPEED FOR NEWPORT

The "hottest" motorboat in the west, and perhaps in the entire country, will attempt to crack all existing records for 732-cubic inch Gold Cup racers on Newport bay next Sunday afternoon.

Lou Fagol, member of a prominent truck manufacturing family, has entered his "So Long" in the speed trials, which will be held in the west arm of the bay, alongside the Coast Highway, it was announced today. Fagol, taking part in the recent races over the same course, exhibited such speed while his boat remained together that experts said he will break all records if he manages to hold his high-powered craft on the course Sunday.

Two other speedy entries are "El Torbellino II," owned and piloted by Art Bobrick, famed boat racer from Long Beach, and "Miss Golden Gate," entry of Danny Arena of San Francisco, present holder of the Pacific coast championship for Gold Cup boats. Six entries are expected for the trials. Since experiencing motor trouble in the races at Newport, Fagol has reassembled his flashy "So Long" and it was declared today in perfect shape for a try at the world record for Gold Cuppers. The craft is capable of a speed of more than 80 miles per hour.

Rules to conduct the official mile trials will be furnished by the Los Angeles Speedboat association, with Walter Olson in charge. A committee from the Long Beach Yacht club is sponsoring the event. The mile course will be patrolled Sunday by Harbormaster T. E. Bouche and members of his staff. The races will start at 1 p. m. and may be witnessed from the Coast Highway directly south of the Arches.

Neatest Trick Of Week—You Try to Figure It!

Mathematical puzzle:
A man pays for a 10-cent item with a $10 bill, gets $9.90 in change (including 10 cents in silver, four ones and a five).

Then he finds he had a $1 bill all the time, adds it to the four ones, offers it in exchange for a five.

Now he takes the five and five ones, offers them to the clerk and gets his $10 bill back. One Santa Ana clerk played the game yesterday. It cost him $5, he learned when he'd balanced the cash—after the man left.

It was the first short-change trick reported during the Christmas rush. But there'll be more as crowds thicken, police warned merchants today.

U. S. Protests as Report Tells of Sailors' Attack

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Secretary Hull announced today that official reports had confirmed that Japanese surface vessels machine-gunned the American gunboat Panay after it had been bombed from the air by Japanese naval fliers. Bullet holes were said to have been found in the Panay's outboard motor sampan. The state department official advice, it was added, confirm also that before the Panay sank two Japanese army motorboats approached the ship, machine-gunned it. Some of the Japanese, it was said, boarded the Panay and remained on it about five minutes, although the American colors were flying and were easily discernable.

CHILD SAVED BY PERILOUS OPERATION

Doctors Take
1000-to-1 Chance

If the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Johnston, Newport Beach, were old enough to talk, he'd have a real operation to tell his friends about.

He's unnamed and six weeks old now, but he'll live to tell about the thousand-to-1 chance doctors took with his life.

It was a miracle of medicine that fixed a tiny muscle which has killed nearly every other baby born with the rare formation.

DEADLY DEFECT

The Johnston baby was born in Santa Ana Valley hospital Oct. 30. Shortly afterward physicians learned a circular muscle between his stomach and bowel was so contracted as to prevent excretions from passing out of the stomach. That has happened before, but it's nearly always been fatal.

BANDIT TRAIL PICKED UP

The trail of two bandits who staged a $3000 robbery in downtown Santa Ana Tuesday was becoming hotter today as officials went to San Diego on a tip that the pair may have headed in that direction.

Further description of the robbers was provided yesterday by a busload of Newport Beach High school basketball players, eyewitnesses to the holdup of three J. C. Penney Co. employees on Main near Fourth streets.

The basketball team was traveling past the First National bank when the holdup occurred, players reported, and they saw the bandits run down an alley at the side of the bank.

Value of the loot was minimized today when it was learned nearly all the money was in checks. Officials at the Penney store indicated they had a list of all checks and had ordered payment stopped.

McCabe Accused In Kuchel Case

Accusing Deputy District Attorney Harold McCabe of violation of the county salary ordinance, Defense Attorney S. B. Kaufman hurled a bombshell into Anaheim justice court today.

Kaufman made the charge before Justice Charles Kuchel disqualified himself to hear the second trial of the Anaheim "frozen fruit" case after the judge's nephew, Kuchel, had been called to the stand. The assemblyman did not testify, since the justice adjourned court before any questions were asked the witness.

Kaufman accused McCabe of violating the salary ordinance in being city attorney of La Habra, when the ordinance prohibits private practice by district attorney's deputies.

McCabe contended the ordinance had been found worthless, but said he had arranged to resign the La Habra post.

The secretary of state indicated that this information makes the Panay incident even more serious than it appeared at first.

In making this announcement at his press conference, Hull said the information had been transmitted to the American ambassador at Tokyo for presentation to the Japanese foreign office in the form of representations to supplement facts already set forth in the government's formal note of protest.

Information asserted that information in the hands of the state department also confirmed that while the Panay survivors were escaping from the sinking ship in small boats, Japanese airplanes dived and machine-gunned the boats at low altitudes. Two were wounded.

ADAMANT PUNISHED
FOR PANAY ATTACK
SHANGHAI. (AP)—Rear Admiral Taisu Mitsunami, chief of Japanese naval aerial operations, was relieved of his post today as a result of the bombing of the United States gunboat Panay.

Domei (Japanese agency), which carried the announcement of his removal, declared the Japanese government was acting swiftly to carry out its pledge to America to punish officers responsible for the attack.

It was explained that Mitsunami was relieved because most bombardments in China had been carried out by naval planes.

During the day Japanese army planes carried the warfare into the interior with a series of attacks. Three columns of Japanese shock troops advanced northward from a point between Shanghai and Nanking entered heretofore quiet countryside.

DALE DENIES OLSEN RUMOR

"There is not a word of truth in the report. I have not talked with Senator Olsen, and I certainly have not accepted a position as his campaign manager in the event he runs for governor."

With these words, Chester I. Dale, newly elected head of the Democratic Clubs of Orange County, and former chairman of the California Assembly of Democrats for Orange County, last night denied a recent article in the Santa Ana Register naming him as campaign manager for State Senator Culbert I. Olsen.

Dale did not indicate what his political activities would be during next year's campaign.

Political rumor, however, had it that the veteran campaigner would take the helm for State Senator Harry Westover, being groomed to oppose Congressman Harry Shepard of Riverside county in the next primaries.

Find Trace of Missing Plane

SAN FRANCISCO. (AP)—Further evidence to substantiate the belief of army authorities that Lieut. William F. Steward and Capt. Ira Galehouse crashed to their deaths in San Francisco bay Sunday, was found yesterday.

A crash pad believed to have come from the plane was discovered near the spot where a seat cushion, life preserver and a part of a radio mast were found Monday. The two aviators were on a test flight when they disappeared.

INVESTIGATE CHARGE OF DRUNKEN SAILORS ON WRECKED LINER

CLAIM MEN TERRORIZED PASSENGERS

Senate Committee Orders Manila Probe

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The senate joint maritime committee ordered today an investigation of reports that the crew of the Dollar liner, President Hoover, became drunk and terrorized women and children passengers after the ship ran aground near Taiwan (Formosa) last Friday.

Chairman Copeland (D., N. Y.) said the American consul at Manila, where 134 of the rescued passengers landed, would be asked to transmit a report on the incident.

ASK REPORT
He said the report would be made to the state department, transmitted to the maritime commission and then turned over to the committee for further investigation.

Copeland said the complaints against the President Hoover's crew were "typical" of other complaints which were laid before the committee by maritime commission officials.

"This is just one conspicuous example of innumerable incidents of the same sort," the New Yorker declared.

NO PROTECTION
He added the committee, which is studying proposed revisions in the national maritime act designed to provide for arbitration of maritime labor troubles, had "no desire to protect the owners or operators of ships."

He blamed operators for many of the labor disturbances because of insufficient accommodations for the crews. But, he declared, some settlement must be made of labor difficulties.

"Unless we can bring about some better labor conditions so that the traveling public can be assured that passengers and cargoes are safe and that discipline can be maintained, we might as well throw up our hands and give up the idea of an American merchant marine."

TRAFFIC DEATH INQUEST HELD
An inquest into the death of Jerry Broderson, 205 South Orange street, Orange, was to be conducted from the C. W. Coffey funeral parlor in Orange this afternoon, according to Coroner Earl Abbey.

Broderson died in St. Joseph hospital Tuesday night of injuries received when he was struck by a car as he was crossing Almond street in Orange late Saturday.

Christmas Music Concert Saturday
A special program of Christmas music will be played by the NYA Boys band from 6:30 to 7 p. m. Saturday, at Fourth and Sycamore streets.

Included on the program, to be directed by T. Dunstan Collins, will be "St. Julien March" by Hughes, "Marche Militaire" by Schubert, a tone poem, "Twilight in the Mountains" by Weber, "Grand Sacred Potpourri" and "Joy to the World" arranged by Barnhouse, and "Independence March" by R. B. Hall.

Snuffin Wins Talk Contest
Jack Snuffin and H. C. Ensign won first and second prizes, respectively, at the meeting last night of the Toastmaster's club.

Other speakers were W. N. Cummings, J. E. Walden and Arthur Kruger. LeRoy Quick was toastmaster and President David Cherry was in charge of the business session. Guests were Dr. J. M. Duncan, Dr. C. J. Ruley and Lieut. Dist. Gov. John Larimer.

Japanese Capture Famous Shrine

Into alien hands falls China's shrine of freedom as Japanese forces push relentlessly ahead. Here is a general view of the $3,000,000 tomb where lie the last remains of Sun Yat Sen, father of the Chinese republic. Invading troops were reported extending from Purple Mountain, site of the hallowed mausoleum, to the very gates of Nanking, former capital, deserted only recently by Chiang Kai-shek.

Doctors Perform Risky Operation to Save Baby

of directors of Monte Sano hospital in Los Angeles, and Dr. L. M. Young of Santa Ana performed an operation on the baby that many surgeons would consider almost a futile gesture.

They had to make one quick incision in the circular muscle, and it had to be accurate within the thickness of skin. Otherwise the contents of the infant's stomach might reach the cut area and cause infection that would bring certain death.

Today the infant is headed for recovery—squalling like any normal baby.

The operation will leave a scar two inches long, but otherwise the child will grow up normal in every respect, doctors said.

The baby has been confined in Santa Ana Valley hospital ever since birth, but it will be able to go home within a few weeks.

FORMER STORE CHIEF DIES
Carl A. Fiene, 70, prominent retired Orange merchant, died early this morning at his home, 246 North Grand street, Orange, following an extended illness.

Mr. Fiene was formerly manager of the Ehlen and Grote Cash and Carry store, when it was located on East Chapman street in Orange. He was also manager of the Orange wholesale branch of Smart and Final, and an active member of the St. John's Lutheran church.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Carl Fiene, and one daughter, Miss Alice Fiene, who is a music teacher in Orange. Funeral arrangements will be announced later by the Shannon Funeral home in Orange.

Woman Stricken in Mystery Poisoning
After swallowing a mysterious poison in an asserted suicide attempt, Mrs. C. P. Fay, Fullerton, was in a critical condition in Fullerton General hospital today, as Fullerton police attempted to learn where the woman had purchased the poison.

The poison apparently came from a small bottle which had originally contained harmless pills, police said. The poison was analyzed as that which cannot be legally sold unless the purchaser signs a sales slip, and there was no record of the sale in Orange county drug stores. M. S. Fay had not regained consciousness by noon today.

Employment Office To Move Dec. 20
The Orange county office of the California State Employment service will be moved from its present location in the postoffice building to its new home at 501 W. Fifth street about Dec. 20.

With the growing support of the organization by private industry and commerce and additional applicants anticipated after Jan. 1, the local office is to be enlarged, according to Charles Fallert, director.

Sixteen persons will comprise the staff shortly after the office is moved.

There are nearly 25 acres of land in Texas for each inhabitant.

COSTA MESA DATES BACK
Prehistoric Man Sought

Was Orange county the happy hunting ground for this continent's prehistoric man?

David Bank Rogers, noted paleontologist and archaeologist, thinks so. What's more, he's going to make an attempt to prove his contention.

Rogers, who is curator of the Santa Barbara Museum of Natural history, arrived in Fullerton today as the guest of Daniel Newton, recent discoverer of a group of significant Mojave petroglyphs. Tomorrow night he will give an informal talk in the children's annex of the Fullerton library, in which he will discuss California's prehistoric background.

What is more important, however, was his declaration today that he is "especially interested" in the Costa Mesa area, and intends to make immediate request for funds to permit a scientific expedition into Orange county.

EYEWITNESS TELLS OF NANKING FALL

By ARTHUR MENKEN

NANKING, By Radio From Gunboat Oahu. (AP)—The once-proud capital of ancient China was strewn today with the blood-splattered corpses of its soldier defenders and civilians killed in the bombing, shelling and fierce fighting to which the city was subjected.

Scattered through the city were hundreds of uniforms discarded by fleeing Chinese soldiers who had tried to escape death at the hands of the Japanese by substituting civilian garb.

SOLDIERS LOOT
During the Chinese retreat from Nanking after their defense had been smashed by the terrific Japanese onslaughts, I saw some disorganized looting by fleeing Chinese soldiers and when they had gone, some Japanese carried on the looting.

The Japanese refrained from shelling and bombing the safety zone which was set aside under sponsorship of American and German residents of Nanking. More than 100,000 Chinese sought refuge in the zone.

C. Yates McDaniel, the associated Press correspondent in Nanking, and I saw many policemen shedding their outer clothes and searching for old civilian clothes.

HEAR OF PANAY
We first learned of the Panay's sinking from a young Japanese navy lieutenant on the gunboat Seta. After Nanking's fall we had gone to the river side to request the Japanese to radio the Panay and ask it to return to Nanking.

The lieutenant answered: "Oh, so sorry, Panay sunk."

Unbelieving, we heard him repeat that the gunboat had gone down.

The American-supported University of Nanking, a haven for thousands of terrified refugees, was not hit or disturbed.

To me, the unsung hero of Nanking's fall was an unknown Chinese private whose action probably saved me and Tillman Durbin. New York Times correspondent.

Walking along Chungshan road near the Metropolitan hotel, we were motioned out of the way by the private who, with a small group of soldiers, was putting up a last stand fight. We ducked into the safety zone just before Japanese tanks roared down the street, with machine guns firing.

When they had passed, we found the private and his comrades dead in the street.

40,000 to Attend Second Air Show
Forty thousand persons are expected to attend Santa Ana's second annual air show June 20 when approximately 300 planes are to be exhibited, according to Howard Wood, secretary of the chamber of commerce.

At the first show held last summer, nearly 20,000 persons visited the affair and several hundred pilots were present—with 100 planes.

High School Heads Discuss 'Typing'
Orange county public high school principals met last night in Santa Ana to further discuss the study being made concerning the theory there are some boys and girls who are not properly typed for the present secondary education program.

The study, when concluded, may make recommendations on how to take care of these pupils in the public school system. Next meeting of the principals will be held Jan. 19.

LOWER TRUCK RATES TOLD

Rate reductions of from 60 cents to $1 a ton on California truck shipments up to 10 tons were won in a recent decision handed down by the California railroad commission, G. M. Hutton, Santa Ana trucker, announced today.

Hutton said the decision, effective Jan. 5, will cover shipments in all parts of the state except that south of Oxnard and San Fernando to the Mexican border.

A second case, which operators hope will result in further reductions, was adjourned from San Francisco to Los Angeles, and set for Jan. 18. Further court studies will be submitted at that time.

The Orange county automotive council is working with J. J. Duell, director of the law and utilities department of the California Farm Bureau Federation, in preparation of scale of rates for farmers and truckers, which probably will be submitted soon, Hutton said.

County representatives at the recent sessions in San Francisco included E. A. Maher, executive secretary of the council, and Hutton, who operates the Valencia Truck company of Santa Ana.

number of rich, populous towns. Japanese forces, meanwhile, planned a formal triumphal entry into fallen Nanking for tomorrow afternoon, while other Japanese columns continued their push into the interior.

Japanese officials announced that the American embassy building and other embassy and legation headquarters at Nanking were not damaged in the siege of the city. All Americans and foreigners who remained there were reported safe.

JAPANESE PLAN BOMBING HONOR
TOKYO, (AP)—The Japanese navy ministry announced today that a company of bluejackets would be detailed to honor the victims of the Panay bombing at the spot on the Yangtze river where they were killed.

The formal naval salute will be an unprecedented gesture which authorities said was the highest possible voluntary tribute of one nation to another.

Authoritative sources said the planned salute was not connected with the American protest against the attack.

The admiralty issued a statement reiterating Japanese regret over the incident, adding that the navy "has decided to detail a company of bluejackets to the spot to honor the dead."

It was announced also that sailors of the Japanese third fleet were collecting 5000 yen ($1450) to be contributed to the United States navy.

Foreign Minister Koki Hirota today told the Japanese cabinet council that the foreign ministry was trying to devise a "satisfactory settlement" of the Panay incident.

Hirota told the British ambassador that "the Japanese government will resort to every available means to deal appropriately with the unfortunate matter and further preclude recurrence of similar incidents."

A qualified government official solemnly declared that Japan would meet the demands presented in the United States protest but said Emperor Hirohito had not entered the negotiations.

ously against Assembly action in unseating Dale and other officers as "illegal."

"NEW VIGOR"
"This new club," Dale said, "is not patterned on any skeleton of the old organization. It is after new blood and new vigor."

Its by-laws state it will "work in harmony" with all other Democratic groups, and will be open to any Democrat in the county.

Several vice chairmen were named last night; others will be elected by local clubs enlisting with the central organization. The complete roster of the group, already numbered several hundred, will be approved at a meeting of the executive committee tomorrow night.

CHARTER MEMBERS
Included in the list of charter members:

Col. Waller Lowe, Yorba Linda, former vice chairman of the assembly; Ben Carey, Fullerton, former assembly vice chairman; Dan Henry, Fullerton, former member of the assembly executive committee; W. J. Lauver, Costa Mesa, former member of the assembly executive committee; W. H. Kendall, Corona Del Mar, member of the state central committee; A. V. Hargrove, Anaheim, former assembly vice chairman.

OFFICERS ELECTED
Officers elected last night:

Dale, chairman; Col. Lowe, executive vice chairman; Dan Henry, secretary; Francis Boone, sergeant at arms; Harry Bell, Anaheim, re-elected two weeks ago to serve as treasurer for the assembly, last night was named treasurer for the new club.

Vice chairmen from several of the districts represented were named. They included Hargrove, from Anaheim; Carey, from Fullerton; H. Worsham, from the Placentia, Yorba Linda and Richland district; Lauver, from Costa Mesa, Greenville and Delmi, and Kendall, from Balboa Island and Corona Del Mar.

Organization of the group was begun less than a week after the assembly uprising, at a meeting held Dec. 6 in Fullerton, at the office of Dan O'Hanlon, veteran county Bourbon.

"DID NOT," SAYS LAKE
"They say I asked for it," said Lake. "I did not. Here's what happened."

"Five weeks ago the union, through T. H. Jones, its secretary, made me a promise that it would 'lay off' until I'd had time to investigate their setup. They'd been urging me to join for some time."

"Then last week they approached my son, who is a partner in my firm and attempted to force him to join."

"I went to the union headquarters Friday to protest. Jones met me and we went outside to talk. He said 'join the union, or else'."

"I gave him my answer in one word: 'No.'"

THREAT CHARGED
"Then Mullendore came up and was introduced to me, and we argued again. In a few moments a third man approached, and was introduced to me by Jones as 'Mr. Kelly, an organizer for the Pacific coast district.'"

"Kelly reiterated the threat: 'You'll have to join the union, or else.' When I refused to talk to him, instead of Jones he drew back his fist and slugged me over the eye."

FELL TO GROUND
"I fell to the ground, which was covered with gravel. Blood streamed down my face. When I attempted to rise, Kelly grabbed me from behind and threw me out into the gravel on my face and chest."

"It was then that I threw my coat into my car and dared them to come out and fight me one at a time. None of them appeared, and I drove to the police station and got help."

Lake maintained that Mullendore denied knowing the man who struck him, and told police he had arrived just as the fracas burst out.

He explained that his firm employs three trucks, and one driver, who has been in his employ for the past 10 years. He also maintained the driver now earns more than he would if he belonged to the union, and that he had been offered his choice of joining or staying out.

Police, armed with a warrant charging assault, today were still searching for the man from Reno.

New Star for Jaysee Tree
This evening a new star will appear over the Santa Ana Junior college campus.

Astronomers are not concerned over the new discovery. But Jaysee students felt rather proud that their donations this morning paid for the shining ornament at the top of the tree.

HIGH TIDES EXPECTED

While residents of Ventura and other beach towns fearfully regarded reports of extreme high tides for this morning, tomorrow and Saturday, local beach people were reassured today by officials, who said no damage is anticipated.

R. L. Patterson, city engineer at Newport Beach, said today that no damage resulted along the coastline from Sunday's severe groundswells.

In making a survey with members of the federal soil erosion board, Patterson noted high water marks at Sunset beach, but no appreciable damage.

The only loss reported along the coastline was removal of another section of the venerable Laguna Beach pier, which the city council has been attempting to have removed for several years.

This morning at 7:11 o'clock a high tide of 7.1 feet was recorded. Tomorrow's is slated for 7:56 a. m. and an all-year high of 7.3 feet, while on Saturday at 8:42 a. m. a high of 7.2 feet is expected. Extreme low tides also will be recorded tomorrow and Saturday with a minus mark of 1.7 set for 3:16 and 4 p. m. respectively.

Engineer Patterson recalled that last January, when other high tides did considerable damage along the coast, Balboa Island suffered considerable damage when high winds accompanied the tides. Since that time a $200,000 sea wall has been constructed around the heavily-populated section, and no trouble is expected.

The cranberry grows wild from Newfoundland to the Carolinas and westward to Wisconsin and Arkansas.

PARKING LAW IN BALBOA DISCUSSED

A question which has brought frequent warfare in Newport-Balboa during past few years failed to create more than a ripple of excitement last night when planning board members there heard a proposal for establishment of a beach parking zone in Balboa. Balboa merchants requested the waterfront parking space to aid them during busy summer days, when visitors are forced to go elsewhere because of restricted space to leave their cars. Slight opposition was recorded, mainly due to the fact that the board will not take any action on the matter until the next meeting, set for Dec. 22.

Also to be discussed at that time will be a proposal to keep the harbor district from becoming a "honky-tonk" type of community. Plans for developing the highest type of yachting and recreational area instead will be presented. Plans for a picturesque fisherman's village also will be presented, residents said today.

LEAGUE PUTS ON SEAL SALE

Casting Christmas shopping aside, members of the Assistance league stepped into the breach today and began a sales campaign of Christmas seals for the Tuberculosis and Health association. Working in two-hour shifts, Assistance league members are selling seals at Fourth and Main streets in front of the First National bank from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m., daily until Christmas. "Sales of the seals were not going so rapidly as had been hoped," said Mrs. Lloyd Chosenoweth, Assistance league president. "We are always ready to help where we can in the community, and hope that the public will respond and buy seals in the same spirit."

Relations Board Drops Labor Case

Battle of the National Labor Relations board with A. C. Peterson, publisher of the South Coast News, Laguna Beach, over dismissal of Peterson's composing room foreman recently, has ended when the union agreed to drop the case. The fight had been taken before the National Labor Relations board by the Typographical union. In return, the California Publishers' association had threatened to carry it into the courts.

Ad Brings Lost Pen to Owner

Santa Anan remarks, within hearing of cafeteria cashier, that he had lost his fountain pen cap. "Why I saw one advertised in The Journal," was her prompt comment.

So, a few minutes later he was receiving his missing property at The Journal want-ad counter.

Funeral Notice

LORENZ—Funeral services for William C. Lorenz, who died Dec. 14, will be held at 2 p. m., Friday, from the Brown and Wagner Colonial chapel, 422 W. Broadway, with the Rev. Harry Evan Owens, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiating. Interment in Fairhaven cemetery.

AT SWANSON'S DRIVE-IN

IT'S NOT too early to begin to plan your Christmas dinner. . . . And what easier way out of all the fuss and bustle of preparing the meal than to dine at SWANSON'S DRIVE-IN, 1907 N. Main St. Their lovely dining rooms make ideal setting for holiday entertaining. . . . luncheons, parties, etc. Drive out any day for one of their delicious breakfasts, luncheons or dinners. . . . Plenty of free parking.

ELECTRICALLY MINDED?

IF YOU'RE electrically gifted, minded then go to McFADDEN DALE HARDWARE CO., 422 W. Fourth St., to see a huge display of all electrical appliances, the like of which you've never seen before. There are electric mixers and percolators, silex pots and irons, cast-iron toasters, and grills and waffle irons, toasting hostess trays, clocks for the kitchen and clocks for the living room, heating pads and radiant heaters, corn poppers and Christmas tree lights.

PEP UP THE OLD SHOES!

NOW THAT STANLEY'S HIGH GRADE SHOE REPAIRING SHOP, 417 1/2 N. Broadway (opposite the Broadway theater) has been newly redecorated in gay blue and tan, it's as cheery as blue and tan. To serve you, I feel as smug as though I'd purchased several new pairs of shoes, since I had a few of the old ones fixed up instead. . . . For I hardly recognize them as the decrepit objects that I took in, such a transformation was there when I brought them out. Run down shoes do detract so from one's appearance. . . . let them pep yours up!

FASHIONETTE

By MIRIAM SMITH

FOR HER BOUDOIR

MILADY'S bedroom will take on new charm if blessed by the gift of a boudoir arm chair from CHANDLER'S, Main at Third, this Christmas. In a gay variety of chintz, some plain, some glazed, they are priced from $7.75 up. Their ruffled flounces give them a feminine flair, and their variety of pastel colors makes them highly adaptable to any bedroom. Particularly appealing for its quaintness was a maple arm chair with tiny wooden wings, upholstered in glazed chintz in Toile de Jouy pattern. Depicting early Philadelphia it represents a street scene where a coach and four wait before historic Liberty Hall. A perfect touch to the Early American bedroom at $13.75. Larger exceedingly comfortable wing chairs, upholstered in linen at $25. One especially comfy one in glazed chintz had reversible loose cushions in the back and seat. A chair at $22.75. A dear little matching footstool at $5.50. I fell in love with a gay little channel back tub chair in unglazed chintz, with the gayest of flowers on a rose background. A dream at $19.25. Luxurious chaise longue (French for long chairs) for Milady to lounge and be lazy in to her heart's content at $29.75. Upholstered in various rich and silky fabrics, their graceful contours give an air of elegance to any bedroom and provide a comfortable place to read as well as a boudoir chair for long hours. It is every girl's or woman's dream to possess a magnificent chaise longue. Why not surprise her this year by gratifying her dream and appealing to her femininity with one of these or a boudoir chair from CHANDLER'S, Main at Third.

ATTENTION, MEN!

HERE'S AN easy store in which to select a Christmas gift for Milady. Friendly helpful service and special attention is given to you by HER, at the LA GRACE SHOPPE, 413 N. Sycamore. And undoubtedly she'll be pleased and thrilled, too, when she opens her LA GRACE Christmas package. There are so many lovely things. . . . wash print dresses, house coats and smocks, for the many hours spent about the home. . . . blouses and sweaters galore to give new life to the old suit. . . . hats and scarfs for that finishing touch. . . . lovely lingerie to give that "well dressed underneath" feeling. . . . dressy dresses for "stepping out". . . . sheer hosiery to complement them. . . . not to mention frothy nighties and handsome hostess gowns and robes.

ALL NEWLY DECORATED

IN A MOST attractive way, the showroom at BLANDING NURSERY, 1348 S. Main St. is filled with many desirable gifts to augment your Christmas shopping. . . . Including cyclamen and foliage plants, feathery ferns all neatly potted and gayly colored yard pottery as well as live Christmas trees. Phone 1374 for free delivery.

YOUR CHRISTMAS TREE

WILL BE uniquely beautiful when sprayed in your favorite tint at FAIRMAC STUDIO, 116 S. Sycamore. Your Christmas gifts will be uniquely beautiful, too, if they are from FAIRMAC'S collection of antique glassware. There are lovely old decanters, cologne bottles, a cake stand, compotes, a tiny pitcher and several other choice pieces in cannon ball design. . . . honey dishes and sauce dishes, English hobnail, several pieces of colored glassware, and dainty bisque figurines. Also clever fish water colors, oil paintings and marines, the works of a local artist.

GIFT FOR A LIFETIME

A GIFT that will last as long as a lifetime itself. . . . a portable typewriter from ORANGE COUNTY OFFICE EQUIPMENT CO., 422 N. Sycamore St. Ray Walter will show you all makes of new portables in smart new colors and black. . . . Including the new and noiseless Underwood Typewriter, just arrived. The ease of operation of these new typewriters and the uncanny mechanical quietness is a revelation. See them and you will be convinced, or phone 3234 for information about this perfect gift to the home.

RINGS OF DELICIOUSNESS

IF YOU'RE not conveniently handy to that gem of gems, ARTHUR'S DONUT SHOP in the Grand Central Market, and yet you're a craving for the best donuts ever, then ask for ARTHUR'S DONUTS your nearest grocery store. For they are distributed all over Orange county. . . . Look for the blue and white box bearing their label. But if you are conveniently near, then consider yourself fortunate, for you can get them fresh warm from ARTHUR'S make them every few hours. . . . In a variety of delicious coatings.

THE WORLD TO GIVE

AND at a very nominal sum, too, when you purchase it from STEIN'S, 307 W. Fourth St. . . . All sorts of globes make fine gifts for young and old alike. . . . The same goes for Bibles, too, and STEIN'S are well supplied with them. . . . You will find many nice gifts for men in leather, including billfold and key container sets, dressing sets in leather zipper cases, and zipper brief cases. . . . which are also good for the kiddie to carry her music in. Among the unusual gifts I found fireplace matches. . . . long ones that really emphasize safety-first. . . . and fireplace crystals, which, when tossed on the burning embers, make colorful flames, not unlike the Northern Lights. There are wooden salad fork and spoon, handily fastened together in scissors effect. There are gifts in pottery, chrome, copper and carved wood. There are kodaks, fountain pens, desk sets, game sets, scrap books and desk lamps. And there is still a bountiful assortment of Christmas cards and wrappings waiting your pleasure.

NOT EVEN DO

PARK AND TILFORD of New York City have a better display of liquors than COAST BEVERAGE CO., Third and Broadway. Here you may buy holiday boxes of the choicest California wines. . . . Sauterne, Sherry, Port, and Muscatel. Here also you may procure cordials, champagnes, and liqueurs. . . . the finest imports from France and Italy. . . . And for a real gift of distinction, a bottle of fruit nectar or another of Martini, or perhaps a sealed jar of Tom and Jerry batter. All your purchases from the COAST BEVERAGE will be gift wrapped at your request. Make their phone (661) your party line.

FOR THE LITTLE MOTHER

NOTHING could gladden the heart of a wee lass more than one of the Betsy-Wetsy dolls at one of $2.85, from WELSH'S VARIETY STORE on the Sycamore street side of the Grand Central Market. The doll may be fed, bathed and changed, and comes with a complete outfit of clothes, hats and scarfs for that finishing touch. Also many other toys.

FOR EVERYONE

FOR HIM at TROTTS, Fifth at Sycamore. . . . there are a world of things. Belt buckles, slim knives, cigarette cases and pocket lighters, all more intimately his when monogrammed. Cuff links and watch chains, and the chains, too. But tops of them all, a handsome wrist or pocket watch, preferably of American make. Perhaps he'll like a distinctive ring. . . . a handsome cameo or a sparkling jewel, or a ring denoting his fraternal order. For HER from TROTTS. . . . a beautiful wrist watch, a glamorous compact, a romantic diamond ring or one set with other precious gems. . . . a cross on a slim chain or a locket, or a beautifully practical dresser set. . . . a bracelet or a strand of pearls. For the kiddie. . . . a Mickey Mouse watch of course. And for the home. . . . clocks of all description, a new and much needed set of silver, an electric toaster, cloisonne vases and boudoir lamps, and sparkling crystal and silver pieces to enhance the dinner table. Please every member of your family with a gift from TROTTS.

LINGERIE FOR LADIES

SHE'LL KNOW that you appreciate her if you shower her with lingerie to her heart's content from HART'S, the Friendly Store, 306 North Sycamore. . . . HART'S carry all lines of Munsingwear which has no superior. . . . also a variety of other makes. Their tuckstitch, balbriggan, jersey and flannel pajamas in vivid Christmas colors would insure a cozy night's rest in the briskest of weather. . . . and their heavy satin and crepe gowns and pajamas with lace trim are the most feminine ever, as are their rayon gowns and rayon and satin stripe pajamas by Munsingwear. Vanita slips, "too beautiful for words," crisp taffeta slips with pleated flounce and rayon knitted slips with brassiere top. Lovely bed-jackets soft of wool and color. . . . an ideal gift for the invalid or for someone who loves to read in bed.

GIFTS WORTH THE GIVING

ARE GIFTS from VANDERMAST, Fourth at Sycamore. . . . even in their "smaller gifts" section where each appealing article is carefully chosen with an eye to good taste. "What to buy HIM" is the perennial question that dominates every female's mind about this season of giving. Here you may buy holiday boxes of the choicest California wines. . . . Sauterne, Sherry, Port, and Muscatel. Here also you may procure cordials, champagnes, and liqueurs. . . . the finest imports from France and Italy. . . . And for a real gift of distinction, a bottle of fruit nectar or another of Martini, or perhaps a sealed jar of Tom and Jerry batter. All your purchases from the COAST BEVERAGE will be gift wrapped at your request. Make their phone (661) your party line.

CHOICE FLOWERS

FROM FLOWERLAND, 510 N. Broadway to express the beautiful sentiment of the Christmas season. Beautifully potted cyclamen and poinsettias will delight the "hard to please," as well as a handsome wreath of redwood and holly or holly alone. A corsage of flowers sends an unwritten message of love. . . . A unique vase or dainty figurine would be gladly received as well. Phone 845-W for free delivery.

DELIGHTFULLY PLEASING

TO THE palate are the luscious home made candies for Christmas giving at PRESTON and EASTON, 407 1/2 N. Broadway. From Beth's at Laguna, they include candied fruit peel, candy favors resembling fruits, stuffed dates and fruits, and rum and old English toffee. Also other gifts of all kinds, and books at your disposal from the lending library.

DEAR TO THE FEMINE

HEART THERE ARE so many bits of charming femininity at SCOLLER'S gift department. . . . Squares of gossamer sheer wools to adorn the throat. . . . Also silk printed squares, silk printed ascots, and solid color chiffon scarves. The best ever in hand-made leather bags. . . . Cobwebby sheer hosiery by Vanity Fair. . . . Divine nighties in beautifully textured satin with lace trim. . . . Fragile linen handkerchiefs. . . . Smart blouses in richly heavy satin. . . . Sporty suede sleeveless jackets in the most flattering of colors. You'll be distinctive in your selection if you choose your gift from SCOLLER'S.

Aggregate income in the United States

FASHION CHATTER

Santa Claus has really come to Santa Ana early this year spilling his treasures from his bountiful sack quite generously throughout the stores of our beautiful city. And just to think that there are only seven more precious days left in which to gather them up. One consolation. . . . the stores are all staying open evenings now, which will aid us all lots, for no matter how hard you try, there's always still another who must be remembered. I've trailed through so many of the stores so many times and feasted my eyes on the glorious gift extravaganzas so much and answered so many questions on where to buy certain specific articles that I feel like a walking store guide. So if there are those of you who are having difficulty in finding just what you want, just address me in care of The Journal and I'll try to aid you through the Fashionette stores. Then look for your answer in Fashion Chatter next week, or enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope and I will reply to you personally. Nothing looks more gifty than something in one of the old-fashioned Christmas colors. . . . so why not make some items on your gift list appear in a vivid red or green, and I'll vouch they'll add a bit of cheer to Christmas day and please someone mightily. Good Shopping!!

CORALITOS POTTERY

BY PACIFIC, is the newest addition to PACIFIC POTTERY YARD, 1911 N. Main St. Ram. Insouciantly Californian, Coralitos is the perfect embodiment of old world charm and new world sophistication. From the peaks of the Sierras came the design of the lovely shapes, and from the far stretches of the California desert came the colors. Verdugo green and Celito blue are in the skies of the Mojave; Mission Ivory is found in the glowing sands, and from the sunshine of the desert comes Dorado yellow. In all what's good enough for old Santa is surely good enough for the rest of us. No job is too intricate or too big for them, and clothes fairly sparkle with cleanliness when they return from the WASHINGTON CLEANERS. Better garments now before the Christmas shopping completely drains your pocketbook. You simply cannot afford to spend the holidays looking sorely in need of a cleaning and pressing. You owe it to yourself to look freshly immaculate. . . . and it costs so little money and effort to do so. Just telephone 4944, and they will call for and deliver your garments.

YOUR WEDDING

OIL BATTLE COMPROMISE IS HINTED

State, Long Beach May Reach Agreement

SACRAMENTO. (AP)—Possibility of a compromise between the state and the City of Long Beach to permit it to profit from the oil in its harbor lands has been discussed by state finance department officials in connection with a special session of the legislature.

Governor Merriam's recent disclosure of the probability of a special session devoted to oil and low cost housing followed conferences between the finance department and Long Beach officials.

Any legislation passed at a special session to protect the state's oil should include the Wilmington field, within its provisions, Director A. E. Stockburger said.

Although the state administration has not revealed what it has in mind in the way of legislation, Governor Merriam has stated the Long Beach and Wilmington situations are giving him concern.

Finance department officials said today they doubt that a special session could do anything about the Olson oil bill, affecting the Huntington Beach field, if the state supreme court sustains the right of referendum against it or if it should be held unconstitutional.

The legislature could, however, amend the acts which granted Long Beach title to tidelands to remove what they consider a bar against the city's granting of leases for oil development or doing its own drilling to obtain funds for harbor or other specified purposes.

The grants can be amended only by mutual consent of state and city, Stockburger said. It is possible that if a compromise could be reached the dispute between city and state could be settled and litigation avoided, he said. He does not believe, he declared, that the state can ever recognize the city's claim of title to the oil but it could negotiate an agreement whereby the city would receive a satisfactory revenue as a payment for the use of the surface of the ground, by whoever extracted the oil.

LAST RITES FOR LORENZ

Last rites for William C. Lorenz, popular Santa Ana jeweler, who died of a heart attack in his room at the local Elks hall on Tuesday, will be conducted by the Rev. Perry F. Schrock, pastor of the First Congregational church, from the Brown and Wagner Colonial chapel at 2 p. m. tomorrow.

Committal services will follow the other rites, and will be under the auspices of the Santa Ana lodge, No. 794, B. P. O. E. The body will be shipped to Nashville, Ill., for interment.

Killer Escapes Electric Chair

EBENSBURG, Pa. (AP)—Wan Mrs. Margaret Karmendi, twice sentenced to die in the electric chair, escaped that fate today as the third jury to try her for the railroad spike slaying of a son returned a verdict of second-degree murder.

Judge John McCann announced sentence would be imposed next Monday. The verdict carries a penalty of 10 to 20 years in the penitentiary.

The commonwealth charged Mrs. Karmendi and Roy Lockard, her 25-year-old WPA worker admirer, killed 3-year-old Matthew "Sonny" Karmendi, Jr., because, by his childish prattle, he had disclosed their "dates."

But the coat looked like rabbit to Mrs. Irene Chance of Yorba Linda. So she called the sheriff's office.

One of the salesmen who rapped on her front door was so drunk he could hardly stand, Mrs. Chance told officers. The other did the talking.

Both had vanished from the neighborhood when deputies arrived.

College Art Class Turns Out Cards

Orders totaling 1000 Christmas cards were completed today by members of three Santa Ana Junior college art classes for the annual Alpha Rho Tau project, Miss Frances Egge, Tau of the art department, announced.

Terminating two and one-half weeks of turning out hand blocked and originally designed cards, 25 art students participated in the group project.

Money from the Christmas card sales will be used in part by Alpha Rho Tau, the art club, to frame a painting by Vincent Van Gogh which will be donated to the college.

Turkey Growers To Meet Friday

Discussion of the retail market situation will be conducted at a meeting of Orange county turkey growers to be held at 7:15 p. m. Friday in the Farm bureau building, 357 South Main street, Orange. There are approximately 40 or 50 turkey raisers in the county with flocks ranging from about 500 to 2000 birds, it is estimated.

Sontag's Prepares for Holiday Buying Crowds

Only eight more shopping days till Christmas—and Sontag's is ready for the rush! The above scene of the store interior gives some indication of the preparations made by the popular Fourth street drug store for the avalanche of expected holiday buyers. Manager Lou Goldman announced that the store boasts a complete stock of all sorts of sundries and gifts for every member of the family. A large staff of competent and courteous salespeople is on hand to take care of shoppers.

Scotland Yard 'Gets Man' After 25-Year Chase

LONDON. (Special)—Scotland Yard has caught up at last with "Flannel Foot," the elusive burglar who mocked it for 25 years.

Prosecuting Counsel Christmas Humphreys said at Middlesex Sessions today that Henry Williams, 49-year-old London clerk, who was sentenced to five years' penal servitude, was the man.

Williams faced six house-breaking charges, including one of "burglariously breaking out of a house," but at his request he was permitted to plead guilty to an additional 34 counts.

When arrested he had in his possession, according to court records, 47 keys, two table knives, a screw driver, a piece of wire, two torches, a metal grip, two safety pins, a pair of galoshes, a pocket knife and a pair of gloves.

"Flannel Foot," who robbed thousands of houses in and around London during his career, got the name from strips of flannel he wrapped around his shoes to muffle his footsteps. In addition to evading police like a phantom, he taunted them by telephoning Scotland Yard whenever he planned to take a holiday, and notifying them whenever he returned.

On the day in 1936 when the British crime commission returned from the United States with the statement that Americans feel an admiration almost amounting to hero worship for Scotland Yard, "Flannel Foot" called the Winchester Hill police station.

"I am going to Brighton for a spell," he said, "so you needn't worry until I return. I will let you know when I get back on the job."

Last Christmas he called the Yard to wish the police a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year.

"Flannel Foot" sometimes broke into as many as six houses in a night, traveling between them and escaping on a stolen bicycle or in the subway. He stole only money.

D. A. V. to Hear Compensation Talk

Two speakers will discuss veterans' compensation problems tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. before a meeting of Orange county compensated veterans, and widows and dependants of disabled veterans. The meeting will be held in the city hall council chambers.

Frank J. Irwin, Hollywood, and C. Bert Allen, formerly of San Diego and now of Orange county, will be the speakers. Both are recipients of Distinguished Service Crosses and other awards won during the World war.

All disabled veterans, their widows and dependants are urged to attend. There will be no admission charge.

ILLEGAL ENTRY CHARGE

Luis Gallegos, 24, Zacatecas, Mex., was booked in the county jail yesterday on a charge of illegal entry into the United States.

ASSEMBLY IN IMPRESSIVE YULE SHOW

Distant choir voices singing "Silent Night" introduced the Santa Ana Junior college assembly program yesterday afternoon when 34 white-robed figures each carrying a lighted candle slowly marched down the aisle.

"Why the Chimes Rang" was the presentation of the play which was performed in the senior high school before jaycee students and their parents and friends.

As an introductory musical prologue, the women's Treble Clef furnished the harmony background for "Ava Maria," solo given by Mona June Robertson.

Merle Swingle playing the violin and Anna Mae Archer the cello, rendered a duet and accompaniment for the women's chorus.

Miss Myrtle A. Martin, head of the group, singing and men's octette which also sang Christmas songs as part of the program.

Ernest Crozier Phillips directed the play with the following cast: John Holman, a little boy; Joe Allen, whose sincerity caused the chimes to ring; Stanley Slaback, the uncle; and Treva Howard, a weary old woman, furnished the dramatic dialogue in the performance.

Bruce Buell played the part of a bishop, Virginia Scott, Wayne Tarvin, Wilbur Masters, Vic Rowland, Eileen Reid and Isa Grace Young typified lords, ladies, and peasants during the medieval age.

Outstanding in scenery decorations was the huge cathedral window with life-sized figures serving as a background for the climactic part of the play.

Irene Krisher, college freshman, was responsible for painting the figures and assisting the art department which is in the supervision of M. J. Frances Egges, to design the large painting.

Miss Holman, jaycee student, had charge of designing the varied and original costumes.

NEWS OF ORANGE COUNTY COMMUNITIES

COAST YULE PARTY PLANS ANNOUNCED

Affair Slated for Dec. 21 at Laguna

NEWPORT-BALBOA. — Completed plans for the annual Christmas party of the Orange County Coast association, major event of the year for the booster body were announced today by Harry Welch, secretary. The dinner and entertainment will be held next Tuesday in Laguna Beach.

Today President Leslie F. Kimball announced that a huge turkey will be offered as a prize during the evening, while Dan Mulherson, county WPA director and mayor of San Clemente, also will offer an award.

Mrs. C. G. Huston, who is heading the committee arranging the decorations promises that there will be several added prizes. Bill Gallienne of Huntington Beach will lead community singing. Elmer Hughes, H. H. Henshaw and others are ready to assist in the seating arrangements so there will be no delay and confusion. All tickets must be purchased in advance and only reservations will be made for those holding tickets. Welch said. Place cards will be used to assist in seating and a special committee will be on hand early to assist.

At this meeting the only business matter which is to come up for consideration is appointment of a nominating committee which will have charge of presenting a list of suggested officers for another year. Only the committee will be appointed at the Christmas party, the report will be presented for another month to be presented.

The affair a year ago was held at Costa Mesa and had been held several years at Seal Beach. With the change to Laguna Beach it is believed the association from now will change its place of meeting for the Christmas party every year.

PLACENTIA PAGEANT SET

PLACENTIA. — Combined Placentia schools are to present a Christmas pageant of the Nativity in pantomime and music Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the school auditorium.

The pageant will feature more than 150 voices in separate and combined choirs. The Bradford Avenue Grammar school choruses and the Valencia High School Boys' and Girls' Glee clubs will band together in the finale.

Leads are to be sung by Yvonne Miller and Stanley Van De Putte. The Three Kings are to be Leland Myer, George Dodds and Bud Lemke, and the angel is to be sung by Marjorie Steen. Richard Schade will be narrator.

Inkeepers will be portrayed by Biss Eisenacher, William Gatewood and Eugene Sweet. Bobby Miller, second grader, will sing a solo, and Anita Schultz will sing. Shepherds are Gordon Swoffer, Roy Hale, Russell Jennings, Cecil Rospaw and Billy Belasquez.

Tuesday Club Meets in Grove
GARDEN GROVE. — Mrs. J. A. Knapp, assisted by Mrs. J. C. Arkey and Mrs. J. R. Skewis, entertained members of the Tuesday Afternoon club with a luncheon and Christmas party this week at the Knapp home on East Garden Grove boulevard.

Mrs. J. A. Williams and Mrs. E. M. Dozier won prizes for games.

Mrs. C. F. Seitter was a guest. Other members present were Mesdames Nona Cloyes, E. A. Wakeham, Birdie Mills, Harry Meyer, W. E. Hennion, Nellie Harpster, J. L. Mitchell and L. W. Schauer.

H. B. SCOUTS FETED AT HONOR COURT

HUNTINGTON BEACH. — More than 300 Scouts and their parents attended the quarterly Boy Scout district court of honor, held Tuesday night in the Veterans Memorial Hall.

A large number of Scouts were awarded badges for completing certain requirements. Roy Underwood received special notice when he was presented with the "Eagle with Bronze Palm." Ray H. Overacker was acting chairman of the court of honor.

The presentation was followed by a short talk by Raymond Elliott, vice principal of the Huntington Beach High school, on the early days of Scouting in Orange county.

Preceding the court, Scouts and a number of prominent citizens were honored with a complimentary dinner given by the district committee. Art Wilson, president of the committee, acted as toastmaster. Harrison E. White, county scout executive, spoke briefly.

PREPARE GIFTS FOR CHILDREN

GARDEN GROVE. — Gifts which will be taken to the children's hospital were prepared by members of the Queen Esther society in the First Methodist church Tuesday evening. Charlene Weatherman led the devotions and Rutha Wootton gave the study lesson. Plans were made for a cooked food sale Monday.

Jean Holt acted as Santa Claus in distributing gifts. Guests were Mrs. C. F. Seitter and Mabel Booth. Other members were Joyce Arkley, Betty Sorenson, Eloise Humphrey, Sam Camp, Lois Doig, Dorothy and Betty Swenson and the advisor, Miss Velda Barnes.

RICE ELECTED REALTY HEAD

ORANGE. — W. J. Rice was elected president of the Orange realty board Tuesday afternoon, replacing Thomas Green, who was president last year.

Other board members, all of whom were re-elected, are J. F. Campbell, vice president; Paul Muench, secretary-treasurer, and S. E. Edwards, state director and director to regional board meetings.

Officers will be installed Jan. 14 at the annual meeting of the Santa Ana realty board.

TOWNSEND NEWS, VIEWS

Mrs. Beulah Ferguson, Costa Mesa director of the Townsend Players who a month ago in the Women's clubhouse of that city staged a pageant of the Nativity, is being featured as an entertainer tomorrow evening at the Townsend Bazaar and Fair in the San Bernardino municipal auditorium. She will be assisted by Miss Louisa Beaumont, while Mrs. Lena Burdick furnishes piano accompaniment. Tomorrow evening's offering will be in the form of an Irish comedy.

The Townsend Players' entire company have been engaged to appear in the Fullerton Ebell clubhouse on the evening of Jan. 10, 1938, under Townsend auspices. They will put on the same production which so completely captivated Costa Mesa folks when presented there. This group of players have fine capability and will doubtless be of great assistance in raising funds for the Townsend cause if booked by the clubs having proper facilities for staging such a performance. Mrs. Ferguson has had wide theatrical experience as the cast she directed in the Costa Mesa clubhouse demonstrated.

The Huntington Beach club No. 1 is meeting at 7:30 with dwtw 1 is meeting at 7:30 this evening in the Memorial hall located on Sixth street. A. D. Marshall, president, writes that the meeting will be a business affair. The treasurer of this club is B. T. Mollica, owner of a shoe repair shop of Fifth street. His name seldom gets into this column but he is a real go-getting Townsendite who is always on the job to help the Townsend cause. He recently added a new garage to his home property. The writer recently dropped into his place of business and as usual Mollica was dishing out Townsend plan logic. When he gets through talking Townsendism to the visitors at his shop he sells them a Townsend Weekly so they can't forget what he said.

Santa Ana Townsend club No. 3 will meet at 7:30 this evening in Townsend hall at 509 West Fourth street with Phillip S. Doolittle in the chair. The writer conducted Dr. U. G. Littell who reported that headquarters has been asked for a speaker for tonight's meeting but who is being sent he did not know. Matters of great importance will be discussed.

A special meeting of Santa Ana club No. 9 is called for 7:30 to-night to elect delegates to the district convention and discuss other matters of importance. The meeting will be held in the home of C. A. Holloway, 2027 Cypress street, who urges the members to be present.

COSTA MESA WELFARE SESSION SET

COSTA MESA. — A special district meeting of the newly-organized Costa Mesa Community Welfare association has been called for Friday evening from 7 to 8 o'clock, in the home of Mrs. A. L. Pinkley, on Broadway at Fullerton avenue.

All welfare chairmen of Costa Mesa organizations are urged to bring with them lists of needy persons which have been reported to their various committees. In this way the association will be enabled to make its necessary plans for Christmas baskets needed and to provide necessary clothing before the holiday. Mrs. Pinkley, association president, stated.

Anyone interested in helping assemble the grocery baskets or in wrapping gifts, is also invited to volunteer their services.

GROVE CORPS NAMES HEADS

GARDEN GROVE. — Mrs. Jennie Lewis was named president of the W. E. Case Woman's Relief corps when the annual election was held Tuesday evening. Other elective officers chosen were Mrs. Loretta Ferris, senior vice president; Miss Kathryn Claes, junior vice president; Mrs. Laura Romack, chaplain; Miss Jennie Clark, treasurer; Mrs. Elizabeth Baldwin, conductor, and Mrs. Nellie Jesse, guard.

Plans were made for a public card party in the Legion hall Friday evening at 8 o'clock. Prizes will be given for both bridge and 500 and refreshments will be served. A Christmas party for the members with a gift exchange was planned for Dec. 28.

Refreshments were served by Mesdames Jennie Lewis, Lucille Hankins and Nellie Dunsdon. Guests present included Mrs. L. Chamberlain of Midway City, Mrs. Elizabeth Ray of Anaheim, Mrs. Gladys McDonald and Mrs. Florence Merriam of Orange.

G. G. Christmas Party Slated

ALAMITOS. — A community Christmas program will be given at the Friends church Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock with children of the Alamitos Grammar school presenting the program, which will include a pageant of the Nativity and a play. The program will be directed by Mrs. Marie Hare and Mrs. Anna Campbell. The treat for the evening will be provided by the Sunday school department of the church.

Essay Winner Talks To Joint Fullerton Meeting

FULLERTON. — Three girls of the Fullerton Junior college won prizes in a contest sponsored by the Fullerton Kiwanis club. Their subject was "Citrus Pests of Southern California," and 125 students of the college wrote essays on the subject.

Prize winners were Margaret Rudd of Anaheim, $15 award for first; Mary Jean Cox of Santa Ana, second and a $10 award, and Isabella Clayton of Anaheim, $5 award and third.

Miss Rudd read her paper at the joint meeting of the Fullerton Kiwanis club and the Placentia Farm center in Fullerton recently. The winners were introduced as guests of the club by S. W. McCulloch, chairman of the agriculture committee, who also introduced the judges, Fullerton J. C. teachers, Rollo Marsden, W. Sharpless and Mrs. Myrtle Stuelke.

More than 100 attended the meeting where Dr. Irving P. Krick, Cal Tech, was principal speaker. He told of the mass movement of air, and how those movements are measured, and why they bring weather changes. He discouraged use of smudge as a means of preventing frost, and said he found smoke as high as 11,000 feet last year. He discussed preventing frost by wind machines and orchard heaters.

Dr. Charles F. Rapp presided and presented L. T. Gillian, president of the Placentia Farm bureau.

HOOVER PUPILS PLAN PROGRAM

WESTMINSTER. — Hoover school pupils will present their Christmas program in the Mexican church Friday night at 6 o'clock.

"The Star in the East" a pageant directed by Miss Helen McCoy will be portrayed by children of the school with Virginia Portillo as "Mary" and Lalo Cruz as "Joseph." Other parts will be taken by Victor Ramirez, Andrew Rivers, Alvaro Mendez, Julio Mendez, Daniel Limas Jesus Limas, jr., Pauline Varela and a chorus of 20.

Plans were made for a public card party in the Legion hall Friday evening at 8 o'clock. Prizes will be given for both bridge and 500 and refreshments will be served. A Christmas party for the members with a gift exchange was planned for Dec. 28.

CHAPTER EIGHTEEN
The car slowed down—not quickly, but gently, easily. The motor was off.

Nancy missed the sound of it in her ears, running through her body. She lay still and tense as the front door opened, and she heard footsteps on the pavement.

Was this the end of the journey?

The footsteps came around to the tonneau door, and she held her breath. The door opened, and the same hands that had pulled her into the closet in her bungalow hours before grasped her.

She felt herself lifted down on something. She didn't know what, except that its surface was hard.

A moment later when she moved her head slightly, her forehead touched something spikey? Another spike, and the musty smell of foliage and she knew it was grass.

She didn't move again as she lay there. She simply waited for what she didn't know.

The footsteps were padding quickly back to the car. One, two, three to the car. So it was not far away where she was lying—the footsteps came back, one two, three again, and she heard something being put on the ground beside her.

Still she couldn't see anything for the blindfold, but her hearing seemed more acute than it had ever been before.

Around her was a little rushing sound, wind in tall dry grass, and the sleepy twitter of a bird somewhere else.

Then another sleepy twitter farther off. The crack of a twig. The rolling of a few pebbles on cement.

His footsteps again. One, two, three back to the car, then they stopped. Then the clatter of metal on metal—not loud, almost purposefully soft. She didn't recognize the sound. It was strange to her, but also it was very close. Something in the car.

MIND CLEAR
The clatter of metal lasted for some time. When it stopped as suddenly as it had begun, the beds seemed not so sleepy in their chatter. One near by was pouring his heart out in song.

He's going to kill me—Nancy said to herself. I don't know why but he is. He's getting something from the car so that he can murder me.

She was waiting for him to come close to her, every nerve in her body shivering, but her mind quite clear, and detached.

He came, but she didn't feel a blow. Instead she felt herself rolled over on her stomach, much as she had when he had fastened the blanket around her body.

He was doing something to the blanket—he was unpinning it. She could hear him breathing heavily as he labored over the pins.

The blanket was off, but her legs and arms were numb from her bandage it had made about her. She didn't try to move because he was so near. He was rolling her again, pulling the blanket from under her, doing something to it. It seemed as if he were folding it.

REMOVES BONDS
Now he was fussing with the bonis on her ankles—they weren't tight, and she had decided in the long drive in the car that they weren't rope or cord.

That they were something fatter than that, for they didn't hurt too much. It was simply that the blanket rolled around her and fastened so securely was tight, and yet the tightness of it pressed against her whole body.

When he took the bonds from her wrists, she could feel his hot breath on her face.

He didn't speak while he was doing these things. Not a sound passed his lips. He was wearing the same gloves he had worn when he made her his prisoner, cotton gloves that clung to his fingers.

She felt them against her arms and her hands—not too plainly because her hands and arms were so numb.

Her feet free, her ankles free. She could move. . . . But she couldn't. She tried it and failed. GASPES WITH RELIEF

Her mind gave orders to her body, but her body couldn't obey yet. It had been tortured in the heavy tight blanket too long.

The towel came off her mouth—he took it off, rolling her head to the side while he unfasted it at the back.

Then he pulled the gag out of her mouth. Her tongue, though, felt swollen, and strange and heavy.

A jerk and the handkerchief was gone from her eyes. She shut them for a moment for the light hurt them—eyes that had been in the dark for hours.

When she opened them again, she saw weeds and grass around her, and above her a tree, and then she heard the car door slam.

He was getting into the front seat. She couldn't see anything but his shoulders, and the dark grey mask over his face and head. He wasn't wearing a hat.

The noise of the motor went through her like an electric shock, and she felt her knees shaking, and she struggled to her knees from her flat prone position, pain tearing through her at the effort.

A tan sedan—a Ford, she thought swiftly. Not new, not old. One of those cars you see on the roads all the time. You passed them by the thousands.

TRIES TO SCREAM
The car was moving off, swiftly, the smoke from the exhaust making a blue trail after it. She was searching the fenders for the license plate, and trying to scream and trying to move.

Then it was gone. It had rounded the corner, and although she could hear it she couldn't see it.

But she knew one thing about it. It had no rear license plate.

G. G. CHAMBER TO INDORSE MERCHANTS

GARDEN GROVE. — Merchants will hereafter refuse to deal with either individuals or organizations seeking funds or circular advertising until the proposal has been indorsed by the chamber of commerce secretary and three members of the board of directors, according to a resolution adopted at the regular meeting of the chamber Tuesday evening.

Reports of committee chairmen included that of E. H. Darling, who stated that his committee had been successful in obtaining a pedestrian safety zone on Euclid avenue between Acacia street and Garden Grove boulevard, which had been installed that day. F. A. Monroe, head of the street decorations committee, reported that ornamental lights had been installed and turned on Saturday evening with equipment which may be used in other years. A. Aabel stated that the alley just east of Euclid avenue would be improved at an early date, according to word from Supervisor John Mitchell.

ORANGE YULE EVENT FRIDAY

ORANGE. — One of the most elaborate Christmas assemblies ever held in Orange High school will be presented Friday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock when approximately 90 students will take part in a play, which will feature both boys' and girls' glee clubs and the entire drama club.

Miss Shirley Hayes is director of the play, "Gloria," and music is in charge of Miss Phyllis Lucy Keyes and Percy Green.

In the hall of the auditorium building the students have erected a Christmas tree, surrounded by a living room scene. No welfare gifts of food and clothing were solicited this year, due to the lessened need.

Under the tail light was only the frame where the license plate had been.

The scream she had been trying to summon came—not loud, as she wanted it, not shrill. Nothing but a little moan from her dry mouth.

She fell back on the grass because she couldn't sit up any longer. She could still hear the car, she knew the sound of the motor so well. But soon the motor noises grew fainter and fainter, and there was the sound of other cars which came to her ears. She couldn't see them, but she could hear them in the distance.

He had gone, masked. So she wouldn't recognize his face, so she wouldn't be able to identify him. He had taken the license plates off the back of his car, so she couldn't be able to read the number.

She knew he must have done it while she was lying still fastened in the blanket sack.

He wouldn't have risked driving this far from Los Angeles with no rear license plates. That clattered metal on metal. . . .

AFRAID
He was gone and she was afraid. She didn't remember having any great feeling of fear when he put her on the ground, even while he was undoing the pins that held her.

She had been ready then for anything that he might wish to do—ready for murder. It was different as she looked up at the tree above her.

Fear like a physical thing came over, and she was dizzy with it. She closed her eyes and the tree faded from sight, and she saw him again getting into the car, only his head and shoulders, and that mask concealing his hair and his face.

Gray and ill-fitting, as if it had been hacked from a piece of cheap cloth.

Some feeling was coming back into her arms and her legs, but it was coming in jerky waves like the fear that was feeding her brain.

"I must get up—!" But she couldn't. She couldn't so soon summon up the same will that had pulled her to her knees for that brief time when she looked at the speeding car that he was driving.

FINDS HER BELONGINGS
So she lay, with her eyes open again, and the fear receding a little. The leaves above her were so green and fresh.

Great drops of dew hung on them. White oak the tree was. Nancy's lips, then another on her cheek, and another on her eyelids. The drop on her warm lips was like ice.

Above the tree was the sky—not brilliant blue, but a hazy blue touched with mauve.

She moved her right arm, gingerly. A little, then a little more. It struck something, and she looked around.

On the ground beside her was her overnight bag, her pocketbook, her hat and her gloves and her topcoat. Much as she had seen them last on her own bed in the bungalow at home.

Forward Passers Need More Protection---Shaughnessy

CHICAGO. (AP)—Legislation is needed to stop the "merciless, reckless punishment" of forward passers in college football games, Clark Shaughnessy, head coach at the University of Chicago, declared today.

Saughnessy will advocate changes in the rules at meeting of America's gridiron coaches at New Orleans Dec. 28 to bring about action to protect the passers. He will propose that passes be permitted from any point behind the line of scrimmage as allowed in professional football instead of compelling the college player to toss his shots from at least five yards back of the scrimmage line. If a passer is trapped, he may be forced to run 10 to 15 yards back, subjecting him to even more dangerous punishment, before throwing.

The kindly, considerate Shaughnessy, one of the oldest coaches in point of service now in the game, brands the punishment a

'Wild Red' Berry Wrestles Titleholder Tonight

CHAMP FACES THREAT ON O.C.A.C. MAT

Making his first defense of his world junior heavyweight wrestling championship before mat followers of Orange county, Dude Chick, Wyoming cowboy, meets "Wild Red" Berry at the Orange County Athletic club tonight.

Champion Chick and Challenger Berry are down for a two-out-of-three-fall, to a finish match and according to officials of the Highway 101 club, the biggest crowd to see a mat show at the arena since the junior heavyweight and light-heavyweights replaced the heavyweights, is expected.

SEEKS FOURTH WIN

Challenger Berry has won three consecutive matches at the club, defeating Monty La Due, French Apache, twice hand running and conquering Carlos Rodriguez, Mexican champion, in straight falls.

Berry formerly held the light-heavyweight title, and while he still declares he can make the stipulate 175 pounds, it is a well known fact that he has put on poundage during the past few months and is better wrestling at catch-weight which is around the 182-pound mark. Chick scales 191 pounds.

Heralded as the greatest "airplane spinner" in the game with a record of having twirled an opponent 51 times before pinning him, Berry will have to watch every move he makes for fear of getting elevated and crushed by the champion.

Bobby Roberts and the Black Panther clash in the three fall, 45-minute semi-final. Roberts is one of the few grapplers ever to beat the Panther, who has scored impressive victories here over Rodriguez, Danny Savich and Joe Sabo.

The colored light-heavyweight is a master at science and leverage. The fact that his opponent, Roberts, holds a win over him indicates the Panther will be in for his toughest match, and perhaps a defeat.

MAKES DEBUT HERE

"Black Dragon" makes his bow in the special event. The Dragon faces Frank Clements, who recently defeated Marshall Carter. Popeye O'Brien, veteran Irishman, draws Sergeant Bob Keneson, Hollywood favorite, in the one-fall opener, which is billed to get under way at 8:30 o'clock.

Louis-Schmeling Fight May Be Moved to Chicago Ring

NEW YORK. (AP)—Don't breathe it to a soul, but Chicago has the inside track on the championship brawl between Max Schmeling and Joe Louis next June, with Detroit running a spirited campaign for the fight.

Contrary to snap judgment, the near-capacity crowd that turned out to watch Schmeling paralyze Harry Thomas at the Garden Monday night did not cause Promoter Mike Jacobs to turn any handsprings. Mike, on the contrary, looked over the assemblage with the bilious eye of an old ticket-scalper and decided New York positively would not do as a setting for his pugilistic pearl.

SPENDERS NOT THERE

What Mike and his keen-eyed advisors noted was the fact that the well-heeled Jewish population, with only a few notable exceptions, was not at the ringside. The cloak-and-suiters who are notorious fight fans even had warned their employees not to watch Herr Schmeling, the Nazi fight under pain of having their salaries amputated.

"The big spenders were not there," admitted a prominent member of the Jacobs entourage. "Mike didn't know the faces at the

Los Angeles Open. Purse of $5000 Offered By Arlen

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Actor Richard Arlen came to the rescue of the 13-year-old Los Angeles Open Golf tournament today with an offer to guarantee the purse up to $5000.

"If anybody wants to add to that, very well, but if the boys will be willing to shoot for $5000 I will have that much ready for them," Arlen said.

The tourney was dropped from the California winter links program Tuesday by the Los Angeles junior chamber of commerce, because of failure to find a backer. Previously, the chamber had scaled down the purse from $10,000 to $8000, without effect.

Arlen's announcement coincided with a move by Mayor Frank L. Shaw to have the park commissioner weigh means of underwriting the tournament and staging it at the Griffith park municipal links.

12 J. C. FIVES IN TOURNNEY

Studded with 12 top-notch clubs, Chaffey's first annual Southern California Junior college basketball tournament gets under way tomorrow afternoon with Santa Ana's Don quintet paired with Long Beach in the first round of the lower bracket.

Fullerton, the Southland's defending champion, takes the floor against the strong Los Angeles Cubs in the second round of the upper bracket, having drawn a bye in the first round of play.

First round draw (upper bracket): Riverside vs. Pasadena, Citrus vs. Glendale. Second round: Los Angeles vs. Fullerton.

First round (lower bracket): Compton vs. Pomona, Santa Ana vs. Long Beach. Second round: Chaffey vs. Taft.

The finals will be held Saturday night with the semi-finals scheduled for the afternoon. Carrying the Don colors will be Cy Leivermann, Charles Hall, Harold (Chuck) Barrett, Verne Rutledge, Ken Marshall, Don Randall, Del Holan, Ted DeVellis and Lynn Arnett.

TROY VS. L. S. U. — The touring Trojans of Southern California open a two-game series with Louisiana State University's basketball team here tonight.

THIRTY SAINT LETTERMEN ANNOUNCED

Acting Capt. Don Warhurst, all-Crus 1938 squad, with 499 minutes to his credit, was the "iron-man" of Santa Ana High school's list of 30 football lettermen announced today by Coaches Bill Foote and Joe Koegler.

Four members of Coach Reece Greene's sophomore championship eleven, Ralph Shallenberger, Ralph and Ross Barnes and Bobbie Musick—were awarded varsity monograms for their ability to fill substitute roles after their own sophomore schedule had closed.

All will be leading prospects on the Saints 1939 squad. Letters and other awards will not be presented until an assembly at the close of the semester, although the champion Saints will be honored at a banquet in the American Legion hall Dec. 30, with Coach Leonard (Stub) Allison of California's Bears as featured speaker.

Varsity lettermen, in addition to Warhurst and the quartet of ace sophomores, and their minutes of play follow:

Milton Smith, 465; Larry Stump, 390; Bill Musick, 378; Bob Webb, 364; Dick Horton, 363; "Crush" Pride, 287; Jack McClure, 280; Eugene (Bud) Hamaker, 280; Bob Maddock, 269; Barney Robinson, 266; Marvin Webb, 243; Ray Mercado, 230.

Wilson's Five Continues Win Streak, 32-26

Tumbling of Treesweet by M. E. South's basketball quintet, 26-20, and the continuation of Wilson Dairy's winning streak at the expense of Excelsior Creamery, 32-26, was the main course of events in last night's triple-header at the Y. M. C. A. Patterson's Dairy was upset by Penhall's of Westminster in a thriller, 31-29, in the nightcap.

A's Lock and Key Shop and Advent Christians clash at 7:15 tonight, with the runner-up spot to Wilson's hanging in balance.

Blanchard and Denio rimmed the basket for 12 points each in giving Wilson's its ninth consecutive victory. The score was 16-9 at halftime.

M. E. South led Treesweet 14-12 at the half while Penhall's topped Patterson's 12-11 at the end of the period.

FRANK THOMAS DREAMS OF HOWELL AND HUTSON; FORESEES A LOW SCORE

By PAUL SIMMONS

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP)—Coach Frank Thomas is taking to the Rose Bowl memories of one of the greatest passing and scoring combinations in American football.

It is a dazzling picture that comes to Coach Thomas' mind on the eve of his second invasion of Pasadena as mentor of the Alabama Crimson Tide. The passing team he dreams of was made up of fleet-footed Millard (Dixie) Howell and rangy, swift Don Hutson.

There were other stars on the 'Bama eleven that smashed Stanford, 29-13, in the Rose Bowl three years ago. But Howell and Hutson stole the show.

Few backs ever have displayed the footwork and passing ability in the history of the game that Howell and Hutson, 6-foot-11-inch end, just couldn't miss in their pass efforts.

Stanford shot ahead in the scoring on Fullback Bobby Grayson's touchdown after a teammate had recovered an Alabama fumble in the first period.

HOWELL STARTED IT

Then Thomas saw his charges put on one of the most amazing performances in Rose Bowl history. Howell touched off the powder keg by passing to the Stanford 5-yard line and driving over from that point.

A little later Quarterback Riley Smith kicked a field goal from a trying angle. This score, although coming in handy at the time, was hardly needed for a victory. A minute or so afterwards the dazzling Howell scampered 67 yards for another touchdown.

Then Hutson sprang into the scoring picture, taking a pass good for 54 yards and a touchdown from Joe Riley, sub for Howell. Howell got back into the game before it was over and let loose a toss to Hutson netting 46 yards and a final score.

"These men," Thomas remarked, "put the Babe Ruth punch into a football game. That's what we are lacking this season—climax players."

"But we have a good team. Our light, agile line gives up a good defense against passes and other-

POUGHKEEPSIE REGATTA MAY BE CUT TO 3-MILE COURSE

NEW YORK. (AP)—The four-mile varsity race of the Poughkeepsie regatta, long the blue ribbon event of American college rowing, is again on trial this time with the rowing coaches of the East arrayed against it.

The Rowing Coaches association passed a resolution at a meeting yesterday calling on member coaches to suggest to their graduates that they limit the length of the race to three miles.

James A. Ten Eyck, coach of Syracuse and president of the association, said absence of University of Pennsylvania crews from the annual regatta of the Intercollegiate Rowing association, of which Pennsylvania is a charter member, started sentiment for the move.

"We felt the length of the race should be changed so that Pennsylvania can come back into the regatta, where it belongs," Ten Eyck declared.

Considerable discussion preceded the adoption of the resolution. The unbroken string of triumphs for Pacific coast crews in the race since 1921 may have had something to do with the decision. California eights won the race in 1932, 1934 and 1935, and Washington swept all three races—freshman, junior varsity and varsity—in 1936 and 1937.

Many Eastern coaches feel that superior training conditions on the Pacific coast give Western eights better preparation for the varsity race. Pennsylvania withdrew last winter because of the ever-running Rusty Calloway. Penn coach, could not condition his varsity eight for the four-mile run on the Schuylkill river's training course.

Al Ubrichson, University of Washington coach, who directed the Huskies' sweep in the last two regattas, said last night in Seattle the reduction would be "immature" to him.

"Washington, California and Wisconsin are not members of the rowing association, and only compete on the invitation, so we wouldn't have anything to say about the racing distance," Ubrichson said.

The coaches' resolution is the first move against the length of the race since 1925, when the event was restored to its traditional length of four miles.

Gomez of Champion Yanks Makes Greatest Comeback

NEW YORK. (AP)—Hero of the year's outstanding individual comeback in any sport, by expert vote, is Vernon Gomez, slender subpaw of the World Champion Yankees, who took a big salary cut last winter and then proceeded to recapture No. 1 rank for effectiveness among American league pitchers.

Gomez, who climaxed the end of a two-year slump by standing the Giants on their ears twice in the World Series, gained a decisive margin over all rivals in the seventh annual poll of leading sports writers by the Associated Press.

The tally today showed 19 first place votes for Gomez and a point total of 69, calculated on a 3-2-1 basis for the trio of comeback choices posted by each contributing expert. A total of 53 writers balloted.

Ralph Guldahl, who topped off a wonderful golfing comeback by capturing the United States Open championship, beat Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis for runner-up first-place votes and outpointed Louis, 40 to 34. Louis got support for his rise to title heights after being knocked out the year before by Max Schmeling, the 1936 winner of the comeback poll.

The poll covered an extraordinarily wide range of opinion, even headline sport, and listed no less than 42 individuals, including John Montague and Mike Jacobs. Only four feminine figures were mentioned, one being Helen Wills Moody, who has been mostly in retirement for two years.

Jockey Charley Kurtisner was recognized as the hero of the year's greatest riding comeback. Kurtisner rode War Admiral, the three-year-old champion, and led the 1937 money winners.

SEABISCUIT'S IMPOST 130 FOR HANDICAP

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Speculation and the usual array of arguments followed today behind the announcement of weights for the $100,000 added Santa Anita Handicap.

Webb Everett, racing secretary of the Los Angeles Turf club, emerged from weeks of form chart pondering and posted the list with its 93 prospective candidates.

Top weight of 130 pounds was assigned Charles S. Howard's 1936 handicap champion, Seabiscuit.

Next came Samuel Riddle's War Admiral, champion 3-year-old at 129 pounds.

Rosemont, William DuPont's winner of the last Santa Anita handicap, was third at 128. From there the arguments started and the weights dropped. Bert Baroni's Top Row, the hundred grand winner two years ago, coming in next at 123.

The "Biscuit's top assignment came as no surprise, nor did the impost handed War Admiral, who may or may not come west for the big race next March.

The Rosemont impost drew some criticism on the grounds that the DuPont horse, bothered by shelly feet, has been postward but twice since the Santa Anita Handicap, and ran out of the money in both starts. He packed 124 to win the race here in a tight stretch duel with Seabiscuit, carrying 144.

Ranging downward were Li-garoti, the Argentine sensation owned by Bing Crosby and Lin Howard, son of Seabiscuit's owner, assigned 122; Pompoon, 1935 futurity champion and rated by the horse to beat in the coming race, 120, and two more former horses, France's Le Bambino and Amor Brujo, from Uruguay, each 120.

J. A. Manfuso's Aneroide also came in at 120, and T. P. Morgan's Heffly a pound less, while E. K. Bryson's Calumet Dick drew 118, along with the ever-running Time Supply, owned by Frank Carraud, Lawrence Barker's Gandhi II drew 117, Millsaddle stable's Scabbard 116, as did Austin C. Taylor's Indian Broom and the Valinda Farm's Eagle Pass.

The records show that Azucar, Fred M. Alger's ex-steeplechase jumper, won the initial Santa Anita carrying 117, Top Row the next with 116, eight pounds less than Rosemont last winter.

5-Man Line Nothing New In Football

NEW YORK. (AP)—The five-man line, hailed as football's most startling innovation since the boys shaved off their handle-bar mustaches, really is nothing more than an old dodge decked out in a fancy name.

That may come as a shock to a lot of people who have been worrying over what will be done about it. But the coaches—and they're the ones who should know—are authority for the fact that the five-man line is no newer than knobs on doors, if as new.

In the Southwest conference they claim to have used it 20 years ago. Tatum Gressette of the Citadel in South Carolina is hailed as its southern sponsor, with the date of origin six years ago. Mal Stevens of N. Y. U. recalls that Pop Warner employed it at Stanford long before Pop came east to Temple in 1933.

"Why, say," says Lou Little of Columbia, "I've heard of teams using the five-man line as far back as 1904 and 1905. We used it in pro ball when I was playing in 1919 and 1920, and I even coached it at Georgetown in 1924."

"Only in those days no one bothered to label it. We just played a six-man line and dropped one man out of the middle when we were expecting a pass. The reason everybody's talking about it now as if it were something new is because it's had such a spread in the last two years."

When completely filled, Lake Mead, created by the Colorado river backing up behind Boulder dam, will be 115 miles long.

Ralph Guldahl, who topped off a wonderful golfing comeback by capturing the United States Open championship, beat Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis for runner-up first-place votes and outpointed Louis, 40 to 34. Louis got support for his rise to title heights after being knocked out the year before by Max Schmeling, the 1936 winner of the comeback poll.

ROQUET MOST VALUABLE, SQUAD VOTES

Two of the greatest freshmen ever to represent the Dons—John Joseph, end, and Les McLennan, fullback—will serve as co-captains of Santa Ana Jaycee's 1938 football varsity.

Russell (Rusty) Roquet, dynamic 210-pound tackle, has been voted the most valuable and Cy Leivermann, six-foot-six prep from Minnesota, the most improved player on the 1937 squad.

These and other honors were announced at the Associated Students' annual banquet at the Masonic temple last night, when 300 turned out to pay striking tribute to Coaches Bill Cook and Blanchard Beatty and their Eastern conference co-champions.

Praise was heaped upon the squad by Leo Calland, San Diego State coach, and representatives from three Santa Ana service clubs—Orlyn Robertson, Kiwanis; Frank Harwood, Lions; and W. H. Spurgeon, Jr. Rotary—in brief talks. Al Pickhardt, president of the Associated Students, served as toastmaster. The Majors quartet, comprised of Alvin Rohrs, Lyle Forman, Howard Youel and Harold Rhoades, sang two numbers; and Jack Wood gave a conical reading, "How a Coach Acts Between Halves."

G. A. (Tex) Oliver, University of Arizona coach, was unable to attend.

The Don squad presented Coach Cook with a rod and reel and Assistant Coach Beatty with a traveling bag, following ceremonies in which Cook announced the following awards:

Gold footballs—Ted DeVellis, Carroll Joe, Pancho Foster, Virgil Stevens, Chet Riley, Gil Nehring, Pete Kotler, Bill Twist, Max Moore, Elmer Casey, Jerry Nesmith, Jack Lentz, Walt Opp, Harold Tucker, Larry Timken, Bill Wilson, Mac Beall, Danny Boyd, Joe Crawford, Dick Tauber, Bob Faul, Merle Griest, Carl Lee, Oliver McCarter, Blas Mercurio, Charley Mueller, Dave Phoenix, Bill Semmacher, Erwin Youel, Ed Stanley, Russell Roquet and John Joseph.

Silver footballs—Joe Anton, Lynn Arnett, Ed Bristow, Cal Calloway, Glenn Cave, Grant Keller, Bill McNeill, Lyle Meyer, Verne Rutledge, Art Sherman, Charles Stafford, Don Struck, Tom Sullivan, Larry Todd, Isaac Van Gorkum and Ray Huntzinger.

Letters were presented the managers, Bill Nowotny, Max Galasia, Minoru Nitta and Bill Huntzinger, and the mascots, Danny Fraas and Bob Smiley.

Orange county prep coaches and leading seniors from their squads were special guests.

BUILDING IN WEST TO INCREASE

SAN FRANCISCO. (AP) — The clank of heavy construction machinery, somewhat subdued in the far west this year, promises to swell to roaring volume early next year, construction companies here agreed today.

Two tremendous jobs, the Grand Coulee dam in eastern Washington, to cost $4½ millions, and the $170,000,000 Central Valley water system in California, loom large when compared with the total of $202,539,605 in engineering construction contracts awarded in the western states the first 11 months this year.

Last year's first 11 months total was $251,621,993.

John C. Page, federal reclamation commissioner, here to speed plans for the Central Valley project, indicated a start on the main project could be made 2½ years earlier than seemed possible a few days ago. An agreement with the Southern Pacific railroad was said to provide for temporary rerouting of 3000 feet of track at the Shasta dam at a cost of $500,000. This will permit work on the dam while the main line of the railroad is being realigned, with service continuing meanwhile over temporary tracks.

Postmasters have been authorized to sell precanceled stamps and affix them to second, third and fourth class mail during the Christmas rush to save gift and card senders the trouble.

Presidential Pilot

His dream came true when Engineer J. B. Weymes, 71, realized a life-long ambition of piloting a presidential special train. He was at the throttle on President Roosevelt's recent return from Florida on the run from Rocky Mount, N. C., to Richmond, Va. Weymes will retire in a few weeks.

Phillips to Read Parable

The story of Christmas will be told through the lips of "The Other Wise Man" Sunday evening in the chapel of the First Methodist Episcopal church.

Ernest Crozier Phillips, well known dramatics coach and instructor, will read the famous parable by Henry Van Dyke. The public is invited to the meeting, which is slated for 6 p. m.

Party Planned for Mexican Children

Local Mexican children will be tendered a Christmas party by the 20-30 club if plans now underway materialize. The affair will be financed through a milk fund surplus in the organization.

Preparations are also underway by officers of the club to stage the annual installation of officers Jan. 4. The Orange county clubs at Orange, Fullerton, Anaheim and this community are urged to send representatives to a district meeting in Pomona, Dec. 19.

Matured sugar cane contains 18 per cent sugar.

75 ATTEND YULE DINNER

Approximately 75 persons attended the Christmas party and pot-luck dinner given in the Modern Woodmen hall last night by the Sons and Daughters of the Union Civil War Veterans.

The guests, following the dinner, gathered around a Christmas tree, where they received presents and candy. A musical program was presented during the evening, with the following persons taking part: Roy Kelchner, Mildred Cowen, Richard and Stewart Gibson and Mrs. Bruce Gibson. Dorothy Tubbs presented a reading, and Henry Meier showed motion pictures of Alaska, Grand Canyon and Boulder dam. Mildred Cowen led the group in a community sing.

Chairman of the dining room committee was Media Brayton, assisted by Minnie Cowan, Maud Wallace, Ida Millen and President Bearen Baker. Shirley Wade, Fern Hill and Dorothy Tubbs assisted in the distribution of Christmas presents. Commander Perry Grout was chairman of the committee, assisted by C. F. Millen and Roy Pollock. Millen acted as master of ceremonies.

How and Where to Arrange Flowers

Do your flower arrangements look drab? Does that potted plant droop?

Albert Richard Stockdale of Pasadena, nationally-known design artist, will explain flower arrangement—and suggest improvements in arrangements brought to the lecture—tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the Willard school.

The free lecture and demonstration is sponsored by the adult education department of the city schools. Stockdale was assistant designer on "The Great Ziegfeld" and "Showboat."

P. O. REPORTS MAIL RUSH

The local postoffice is handling approximately 200 sacks of parcels and 20,000 pieces of first-class mail daily in the biggest Christmas mailing rush in the history of the community.

One hundred and three more sacks of parcels have been sent from the Santa Ana office during the last five days even for a corresponding period in 1936. L. F. Harvey superintendent of mails, said today. The aggregate number of sacks placed on trains by the local office from Dec. 11 to 15, inclusive, amounts to approximately 1000. Another 600 to 700 pouches were received during this period for distribution locally.

First-class mail cancellations from Dec. 10-15, inclusive, have numbered 99,700, according to Assist. Postmaster Flake Smith who added there were 75,100 pieces handled during the same period in 1936, showing a gain this year of 24,600. The bulk of the Christmas greeting cards have not yet been turned into the office.

First-class mail cancellations mentioned above do not include pre-cancelled material and a large bulk of third-class matter which has shown a decided gain this year.

Nativity Pageant At St. Joseph's

Pupils of St. Joseph's school in Santa Ana will present a nativity pageant next Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock in the Ebell club auditorium, it was announced today.

Pupils from the seventh and eighth grades will take character parts and the chorus will be formed by the rest of the school. Sisters of St. Joseph's are in charge.

Hobby Should Demand Skill

By DALE CARNEGIE

The other night I appeared on Dave Elman's radio program, "Hobby Lobby."

Each week he puts on the air people who have strange and unusual hobbies. He is the greatest expert on hobbies in the United States.

He has a lot of sympathy with people who collect things just for the sake of collecting. He likes people who collect a reason. He says we should take up hobbies that demand skill and intelligence on our part; those are the most satisfying hobbies.

The hobby of Osgood Perkins, the actor who died in Washington at the opening of "Susan and God," was oil painting. When you praised his acting his eyes didn't light up, but when you praised one of his paintings he simply beamed.

The great Benjamin Franklin had a hobby of playing on musical glasses. When friends came in, he would get out his glasses and happily tinkle away. He became so absorbed in his hobby that he invented a tapping device which made his music clearer. He was proud of this as he was of having discovered the Gulf Stream.

Lowell Thomas's hobby is softball. You can talk to him for hours and he will never mention radio, or writing, or news-reels, or lecturing—but decidedly he will mention softball! He has organized a softball team and turned his hobby into something worth while, taking in thousands of dollars for charity by having his team play exhibition matches with other teams.

Albert Einstein plays the violin. Once, in Pasadena, he became so engrossed that he took off his coat before an audience and played in his shirt sleeves. And his shirt sleeves had been cut off at the elbow!

Recently I had dinner at the home of Richard S. Reynolds at Glen Cove, Long Island, New York. Mr. Reynolds is the head of a dozen corporations, one of which is the Reynolds Metals Company. He is so busy that he has a telephone in his bathroom and even dictates letters over the telephone while he bathes. Well, he has a hobby—writing poetry! It has been published in the magazines and newspapers. He wrote one poem entitled "Wall Street" which was so good that it was sent out over the Dow Jones ticker service, the only poem ever to have gone over a news ticker.

According to Dave Elman that's the right kind of hobby to have—do something, instead of collecting something just for the sake of collecting.

Breakfast Club To Hold Party

Preparations for the Breakfast club Christmas party were revealed this morning at the regular meeting by Eddie Marble, program chairman. The ladies will be honor guests. Appropriate holiday music will be provided, and gifts limited to twenty-five cents in value will be exchanged, to be given later to some organization for distribution among the children whom Santa Claus might overlook.

The program this morning was presented by George Richardson, who introduced "The Accordionettes" from Oceanview, the personnel being Viola Gaston, Jas. Marshall and Calvin Grives. The trio are the pupils of Miss Grace Groves, from the Visel-Haughton studios.

EMPLOYMENT ON FARMS LESS

WASHINGTON. (AP) — The bureau of agricultural economics reported today that farm employment declined approximately 13 per cent between Nov. 1 and Dec. 1.

The bureau said an average of 280 persons were employed per 100 farms on Dec. 1, compared with 304 a month earlier. The Dec. 1 rate also was five less than on the corresponding date last year.

Eighteen Pay Parking Fines

Eighteen overtime parking tickets were cleared in City Judge J. G. Mitchell's court yesterday—at a total cost of $18 to motorists.

Heaviest parking fine was levied against Mrs. T. N. Gaines, who paid $7 for seven parking tickets.

Speeders fined by Judge Mitchell: Thomas P. Geoghegan, Jr., Balboa island, $8; Elmer Baumback, Santa Ana, $8; Paul Gilger, Anaheim, $8; Arthur T. Kardashian, Los Angeles, $6; Clifford A. Potts, Huntington Beach, $6, and Fern G. Tarbox, Santa Ana, $5.

Eggs With Green Yolks Offered For Yule Meals

INDIANAPOLIS. (AP) — The latest scheme in Christmas breakfast color schemes is eggs with green yolks. They should be served with thick slices of red country ham.

The green yolks are easy, says Miss Helen Cade, Butler university professor. Just give the hens a dose of green protein.

PERSONS ON RELIEF DENIED CITIZENSHIP

42 OTHERS NATURALIZED BY COURT

Childbirth Delays Action in One Case

United States citizenship was denied eight persons yesterday—three of them because they are on relief or expect to get government pensions.

Forty-two other citizens of foreign countries, however, became Americans yesterday at impressive ceremonies in Superior Judge H. G. Ames' court which climaxed months of study for the candidates.

Daughters of the American Revolution, following approval by Judge Ames of the candidates' petitions, presented each new citizen with a United States flag.

Franklin Davis, U. S. immigration and naturalization chief for the county, conducted the examinations.

Adult education class teachers, who have instructed the new citizens in the constitution and United States history, each addressed the group following examination of the candidates.

Questioned by Judge Ames and Davis, Walter Wright, James Lafayette Cardwell and Mrs. Hildur Sigrid Becklund each were denied citizenship on relief or pension grounds. Felix Clovis Philippe was denied citizenship on grounds of concealment of essential statements. Other denials, each for failure to appear, were Frederick Julius Engel, Edmund Loucks, Wilhelm Sture Sverker and Angelo Bruno.

Mrs. Lottie Priscilla Hawkey, who lost citizenship by marrying a citizen of another country, was repatriated by taking the oath of allegiance.

There also were several continuances. Mrs. Theresa Bressel became a mother only a day before she was to appear for examination, and will be a member of the next class in six months.

Candidates for citizenship who were accepted:

Henry Charles Davis, John Hansen Inge, William Wesley Cowling, Miss Elise Evelyn Walpole, Mrs. Sophia Sarah Gentner, Emilian Garter, Sydney William Blackbeard, Mrs. Notburga Leber, Mrs. Jennine Jensen Hanson, Mrs. Anna Lovero, Robert Marvin Cooper, Edward Colson Steadman, Mrs. Mary Teresa Flesher, Herbert Harris, Mrs. Abel Marie Hansen, Jose Roberto Ojeda, William Veith Jones, Mrs. Mary Ellen Jones, Mrs. Rachel Jean Callens, Clark Thomas Cleland, Mrs. Louise Mathilde Glenn, Rev. Pedro Penamill Potes.

Mrs. Hubertine Chantrelin, Henry Chantrelin, Johan George Haber, Mrs. Larus Ellis Sizer, Mrs. Rosa Gartner, Mrs. Luigia Ida Sperdiani, Mrs. Eva Druxer, Arnulfo Leon Ramirez, Nisholai Olsen, who changed name to Nick Martin Baugness, William Donald Edgar, Alfred Seymour Stoneman, Mrs. Blanche Seymour Fey, Theodore Harris, Dr. Edmund Francis Cain, Johann Rix, who changed name to John Rix, Jr., Mrs. Helena Agnes Lenain, Edward Fisher Lansdown, Mrs. Iva Branch Vorhis Hart and Mrs. Pamela Rose Mullen McIntyre.

Storm Drain Work Well Under Way

Work on the W. Seventeenth street storm drain has progressed to a point 50 feet east of Baker street, according to Engineer J. L. McBride. The project is to cost the federal government $31,956. Labor is being done by the WPA.

BUILDING PERMIT

Building permits were issued yesterday at the city hall to Matt Cumberworth for a duplex at 1011 N. Flower street to cost $5000 and to H. C. Head for a residence at 1311 W. Ninth street, valued at $8500.

I JUST FOUND OUT—

20,000 Pounds of
Candy for Holidays

By MILLARD BROWNE

More than 20,000 pounds of candy (not counting the home-made variety) will be consumed by sweet-toothed Santa Anans during the Christmas holidays—and most of it will be either cheap old-fashioned bulk candy or costly chocolates from fancy boxes.

Sales of five-cent bars, however, will be lower than at other times during the year, candy wholesalers predict.

Virtual monopoly on Santa Ana's bulk candy business this time of year is enjoyed by Kresses, Woolworths and other big variety stores, principally because most grocers have stopped carrying large stocks in favor of more popular nickel bars.

Variety stores, consequently, carry more than a dozen kinds of special Christmas numbers, around 40 other year-round bins of sweets-in-bulk. Old fashioned types (peanut brittle, hard candy and chewy pieces) are best-sellers, while turnover of chocolates and new-fangled kinds of candy doesn't increase in proportion during the holidays.

Three big wholesalers—L. B. Harrison, Co., Glaser Brothers and Smart & Final—supply most of Orange county's candy bars, distribute nearly 10,000,000 bars to around 1500 retailers each year.

Successful candy bars must have at least two of three essential ingredients: chocolate, caramel and peanuts. "Best-seller of the lot is Baby Ruth, which has all three, while second best is Milky Way and it's sister-bar, Snicker."

Hersheys, which rank next in sales, are the only exceptions to the rule, though not Hersheys sell a little better than plain ones. Other top-ranking confections: Salted peanuts (classified roughly as candy), O'Henry, Uno, Butterfinger, Best Pal, Red Cap, Mr. Goodbar.

Seven big companies make nearly all bar-candy (90 per cent of which is produced in the eastern states), with Hershey supplying raw cocoa for all its competitors except Nestles. That's because of Hershey's near-monopoly on cocoa plantations.

Only big Pacific coast factory is the Euclid Candy company in San Francisco, which does all right with its Red Cap, Best Pal and Love Nest. The Curtis company puts out Baby Ruth, 20,000 bars of which are sold in Orange county each month. Mars company is enjoying revived business on its Milky Way and Snicker, both of which once flopped, while Cardinet, at least partly because of a headline radio program ("Night Editor") is selling a lot of Unos, Battle Bars and Night Editors. Williamson Candy company (O'Henry) once proved a 10-cent bar can be successful, but now is in the five-cent class.

Candy bars are of relatively short duration, usually depend on a catchy name that sooner or later will go stale. This year's assortment of 165-odd different kinds of bars probably will be altogether changed within five years.

About 25 new kinds of bars are put on sale every week, mostly by small companies, and the manufacturers are lucky if one of these new bars lasts a month. Best-selling bar put out this year: The Big Apple, which features volume more than anything else.

Volume in both bars and bulk candy is the big selling item for most children and it's youngsters who buy 75 per cent of the candy.

OKLAHOMA CITY—One of the brothers in ring 53, International Brotherhood of Magicians, received 27 votes for vice president. Starred prestidigitators counted noses. There were only eight at the meeting.

Majority of adult customers are women, and they are a bit more dainty in their tastes.

Most consistent candy products are Hersheys, O'Henrys, salted peanuts, Necco's wafers and chocolate peppermints, which have been on the market for years.

Candy represents only about half of the nickel business of confectioners. About $20,000 a month is spent in Orange county on bar candy, and another $20,000 on gum, life savers and cough drops.

Though winter is the best season for candy sales in most places, Orange county dealers do a better business in summer. That's because of increased population along the beaches.

Unnoticed by adult customers, the assortment of around 250 kinds of one-cent candy is a good seller among children. Penny candy stocks move rapidly in stores located near schools. Suckers lead the list, with penny Baby Ruths, Double-Bubble gum and caramels next in order.

Five cents, however, is the almost universal price for candy sold among more expensive ones represent only a fraction of one per cent of gross sales. Dealers in bulk candy do their biggest business in five and 10-cent bars and in candy that runs five, 10 and 15 cents a pound for that which comes out of bins.

Regimentation Hits Santa As Beard Movement Grows

NEW YORK, (AP)—Santa Clause is being menaced by regimentation—there's a move afoot to regulate the length of his beard.

The sponsors of the idea, which will be placed before the first annual convention of department store Santa Clauses next Sunday, affirm their faith in full, flowing whiskers of traditional style, yet they insist there is virtue in their claim for a uniform length.

The beard should not be so long, they argue, that it will get tangled up in the gears of electric trains, nor should it be so short that it will not convince young skeptics.

The son is past 40 years old.

STATE'S OIL DRILLING HOLDS EVEN

SAN FRANCISCO, (AP)—R. D. Bush, state oil supervisor, reported today California oil drillers started 28 new wells last week, the same number as in the preceding week.

Wilmington continued to lead the other oil fields, with notices covering drilling of six new wells. Santa Maria valley accounted for three, and El Segundo, Dominguez, Round Mountain and Sunset fields had two each.

Drilling notices totaled 1548 for the year, almost 50 per cent more than the 1046 for the like period last year.

Drillers abandoned 20 wells, making 541 this year against 449 last year.

STUDENTS TO ATTEND MEET

Seven Santa Ana Junior college students, headed by Mrs. John Tessmann, faculty advisor, will leave Dec. 26 for the week-long student conference at Asilomar, Monterey peninsula, sponsored annually by the Y. W. C. A.

Representatives of colleges from virtually all western states and Hawaii will attend the conference.

The local delegation will include Ruth Budd, Eleanor Brady, Pauline Cave, Roberta Nichols, Lois Ousler, Helen Lowe and Stella Crist.

CHRISTMAS TREE FOR J. C.

Their plea was not in vain. The Jaycee campus tree is bedecked with lights and brilliant for the Christmas season.

Within a few short hours after the school board had announced that it would be impossible to decorate the tree this year unless labor were donated a crew of four electricians from the Edison company had started the work.

The huge Christmas tree made its bow to the public last night, covered with multi-colored globes. It will be lighted each evening during the holidays.

SANTA WHITE FOX

By SIGRID ARNE

"WE'VE HEARD YOU'RE THE FINEST WHITE FOX IN THE NORTH"

Chapter 16
INTO THE DEN!

As the North Star searched for the home of the white fox he was almost as confused as you or I would have been. He looked down from the sky and all he could see was snow and Christmas trees.

When he saw a tree fairy he signaled her by blinking his one eye very brightly, and saying, "Have you seen the white fox around with a doll?"

"Oh, hello," said the fairy. "No, I didn't see him, but I heard he passed here with a doll in his mouth. He was headed west."

So the Star traveled on, waiting around in the sky for the West Wind that came by very soon. "Say, have you seen the white fox and a doll?" asked the Star.

"Sure, follow me," said the West Wind and he flew across the sky and sooped down around the mountain top where the white fox lived. "In there," said the West Wind.

The North Star looked down and soon he saw one of the little black moles come out wearing a white apron. She brushed off the stoop and went in again. Then he saw the white fox who stepped out, sniffed the air, and went back in.

"Ho, ho, I'll rush back and tell sailor," said the Star. He found the sailor playing with the tiny, tiny squirrel. "Follow me," he called.

In an hour they had come to the fox's mountain. The sailor didn't see a soul. So he sat down on a pile of fir cones to think.

"How about my creeping in there?" asked the squirrel no bigger than a house-fly.

"Have you the courage?" asked the sailor.

"It doesn't take courage," said the squirrel. "He won't see me."

So the sailor set the tiny squirrel in the snow and watched him scamper into the white fox's den. He was gone for a long time and then he rushed back to the sailor

SILVER CORD INSTALLS NEW OFFICERS

Carlyle Dennis is the new worshipful master of the Silver Cord lodge, No. 505, F. & A. M., following installation ceremonies Tuesday evening in the Masonic temple, at which 268 persons were present.

Other new officers are: Theodore S. Hunter, senior warden; Alex Brownridge, treasurer; Lloyd H. Banks, secretary; William G. Wolaston, chaplain; James F. McWilliams, senior deacon; Coker F. Rathbone, Jr., junior deacon; William N. Homes, marshal; John Vernon, senior steward; Ray C. Echols, junior steward, and J. F. Jacoby, tyler.

The tables were beautifully decorated by Mrs. Frank Armin, assisted by Mrs. Carlyle Dennis, Mrs. T. S. Hunter and Mrs. Olin Turner. Music was furnished by Clarence Gustlin, Miss Virginia Pritchard, Grace Hansen Buell and Miss Ruth Armstrong. Frank C. Armin was officer in charge, with A. H. Allen master of ceremonies.

with his eyes fairly popping.

"They're in there, and the doll looks very unhappy," he said.

"We've got to go in," said the sailor. "Going with me?"

"Certainly," said the squirrel. They walked up to the fox's door, and the sailor shouted, "Ahoj, there. Anyone home?" They heard "clump, clump, clump" coming toward them. Then they saw two red eyes and the white fox stood before them saying, "What do you want?"

"To meet you," grinned the sailor. "We've heard you're the finest white fox in the North."

The white fox grinned very pleased, and said, "Who do you mean by 'we'?"

"Me and the squirrel," said the sailor, and he held out the tiny squirrel no bigger than a house-fly.

"I declare," said the fox. "That's quite a curiosity. Come in."

So the two went in. Think how brave they were!

Birthday Tea Inaugurated At Jaysee

Following a unique theme in campus parties, Santa Ana Junior college women having birthdays during the fall months were entertained with a mass birthday party yesterday afternoon in the women's lounge.

Baskets filled with red coto-neaster berries, lighted tapers, and holly wreaths filled the lounge with a Christmas motif. At one end of the room, a long center table held a small tinsel Christmas tree and a Santa Claus riding in a sleigh filled with miniature gifts and pulled by tiny reindeer.

Associated Women students, with the cooperation of Mrs. Robert Northcross, dean of women, entertained at the special party. Personal invitations were sent to almost 100 women students by a committee composed of Miss Barbara Speed, Miss Ellen Reid, and Miss Janet Hollingsworth.

Miss Ann Wetherell, A. W. S. president, planned the affair, and was assisted in hosting the event by Miss Mary Henderson and Miss Betty West. Hospitality was in charge of Miss Mary Snyder and Miss Betty Bradley.

Miss Betty West also arranged the clever decorations, with the assistance of Miss Charlotte McCausland and Miss Jean Mulbar. Refreshments were served to the group from a round table centered by a white madonna entwined by a ring of eight lighted dish candles.

Featured on the musical program for the afternoon was a vocal solo by Miss Nina June Robertson, accompanied at the piano by Miss Elza Mae Hoxse. Anna May, Miss Hoxse, and Miss Robertson, with Miss Audrey Pieper as accompanist.

The refreshment committee was composed of Miss Dorothy Fay Baker, Miss Donilda Dollard, Miss Barbara Malcom, and Miss Peggy Paxton. Those serving on the entertainment committee were Miss Margaret Clinton, Miss Ruth Lenhardt, Miss Margaret Davies, and Miss Marjorie Vollman.

MRS. LEECHING HOSTESS FOR CLUB PARTY

Domestic Arts club members gathered in the Dr. H. W. Leeching home Tuesday to enjoy a delightful noon luncheon, followed by an afternoon of sewing and a Christmas party, with Mrs. Leeching as a charming hostess.

Centering the luncheon tables were small silver trees decorated with tiny red balls. Matching the centerpieces was the larger tree in the dining room which had already been lighted for the Christmas season. A feature of the afternoon was an exchange of lovely gifts.

Mrs. A. Dudek of Costa Mesa, mother of the hostess, was a special guest at the session, as was Miss Maude Johnson of Modesto. Others in the intimate group were Mrs. C. J. Skirvin, Mrs. C. F. Skirvin, Mrs. T. P. Kingrey, Mrs. W. B. Martin, Mrs. J. O. Sexton, Mrs. W. E. Dixon, Mrs. W. B. Williams, Mrs. T. E. Williams, Mrs. Charles Johnson, Mrs. Fleetwood Bell, and Mrs. E. G. Summers.

MAEGDENUS HEAR YULE PROGRAM

The holiday spirit pervaded the session of Wrycende Maegdenus Tuesday night, with the result that a Christmas party and program followed the customary dinner meeting at 6:15 p. m. Miss Jean Ema, president, conducted the affair.

Members decided that they will meet again in December because of the many events scheduled for the holidays. The next meeting of the group will be on Tuesday, Jan. 4. Plans were made Tuesday night for the Christmas charity project.

Miss Myrtle Martin directed her Treble Clef club from Santa Ana Junior college in several Christmas carols. Miss Leone Baxter played a few selections, and the Y. W. association chorus sang Christmas carols under the direction of Miss Myrtle Martin.

Gifts were exchanged, and the group played court whist for the remainder of the evening. Miss Lois Taylor won high prize and Miss Myrtle Parsons, low.

YULE PARTY IS ENJOYED AT BEACH

The beautifully situated home of Mrs. Earl Morrow, overlooking Newport harbor, was setting yesterday for a Christmas party enjoyed by her fellow bridge club members.

After a delicious luncheon, gifts were exchanged among the members, and music and dancing for the club's charity work were made. Contract concluded the day.

Present as substitutes for Mrs. R. G. Tutill and Mrs. Parke Roper, who were unable to attend, were Mrs. Susan Rutherford and Mrs. A. Tuttle of Long Beach. Members present were Mrs. A. C. Flagg, Mrs. A. J. Cruickshank, Mrs. J. P. Hatfield, Mrs. James Harding, Mrs. C. V. Davis, Mrs. George S. Briggs, Mrs. F. E. Farnsworth, Mrs. Roy Hall, Mrs. I. F. Landis, and the hostess.

B. AND P. W. Business and Professional Women of Santa Ana will hold their annual Christmas dinner party Monday at the Doris-Kathryn restaurant at 6 p. m. Since it is a special event there will be a small advance in price. Each member is asked to bring an inexpensive practical gift to exchange.

P.T.A. News

TUSTIN

"Peace through Healthful Living" was the theme of a forceful and interesting talk by Mrs. Mabel Dickinson, home teacher at the Orange county hospital, at the regular meeting of the Tustin Grammar school P.T.A. last Thursday.

Under the direction of Mrs. Merrill Thompson, program chairman, Mrs. Edna Hewitt Crawford, who is secretary of the Orange county Tuberculosis and Health association, presented an imitation radio drama, "Everybody's Problem" with Ruth Allison, Jack Latham and Jack Northrup taking part, and a sound film, "Story of My Life by Tee Bee."

Mrs. Myrtle Shallenberger's fourth grade students entertained with a number of Christmas carols, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Effie J. Matthews, and community singing was led by Mrs. William C. Cook, Superintendent E. E. Harwood announced the Christmas program to be held Wednesday night, Dec. 15, in the high school.

Mrs. R. P. Meairs, chairman of the P.T.A. Parent education for the Fourth district, explained the work. Mrs. Ellen Smith, school nurse, reported on her work in the grammar school.

At the close of the meeting, tea and cookies were served under the direction of sixth grade mothers, Mrs. E. J. Kellogg and Mrs. Raymond Marsie pouring, assisted by Mrs. O. L. Jacobs and Mrs. Burton Rowley.

Preceding the session, an executive board meeting was held under the direction of Mrs. O. W. Householder, president. Present were Mrs. E. J. Franzen, Mrs. Robert Perry, Mrs. R. R. Caldwell, Mrs. Robert Korff, Mrs. Merrill Thompson, Mrs. Albert Thorman, Mrs. William Cook, Mrs. Forrest Collar, Mrs. John Matson, and E. E. Harwood.

TUSTIN HIGH SCHOOL Annual visiting day at Tustin High school last Thursday was very well attended by parents who were given ample opportunity to see exactly what their children are doing day by day.

During the noon hour a panel discussion on war and peace was presented by Vincent L. Humeston, history instructor, and a group of his students, Robert Scholten, president of the student body, acted as chairman, and those taking part were Lois Casey, Robert Newcomb, John Osterman, Dorothy Winn, Helen Betty Rittner, Joe Kiersey, Faye Kodama, Evelyn Bennett, Lenora Marchant and Elizabeth Campbell.

Vocal solos by Miss Virginia Mathews and Miss Ethel Wilde, accompanied by Miss Frances McInteer, completed the program.

After a delicious refreshment course served and prepared by the home economics students and their teacher, Miss Florence Lindbloom, the group was called to order in a business session by Mrs. Joseph L. Marshall, president of Tustin High School P.T.A.

Mrs. Guy Christian, membership chairman, reported a total of 105 members, and financial donations were voted to be given the High School Audion and Broadcaster, as well as purchase of a T. B. bond.

JEFFERSON

Children from the various grades at Jefferson school will present a Christmas program for the Jefferson P.T.A. this evening at 7:30 o'clock in the school auditorium. There will be a lighted tree and a Santa Claus to distribute favors.

LINCOLN

Lincoln Parent-Teachers Association will convene Friday at 1 p. m. at the school for a Christmas program to be presented by the children.

Bride-Elect Feted With Pottery

When Miss Elizabeth Downie and Miss Marion Brownridge joined forces last evening, it was to hostess a most delightful pre-nuptial shower complimenting Miss Betty Smedley, who will become the bride of Lincoln Spaulding shortly after Christmas day.

The Alex Brownridge home at 1414 North Main street was setting for the affair, with large Christmas trees and with one and one-half hundred pieces of pottery for the bride-to-be.

Members of the wedding party were present at last night's affair to make plans for the nuptials, including Miss Mary Tutill, who will be maid of honor; Miss Lois Spaulding, Miss Mary Nau, Miss Marion Brownridge, Mrs. Fred Alexander and Mrs. J. Marlow Coleman, bridesmaids.

Large baskets of holly and poinsettias throughout the rooms completed the holiday arrangements. At a late hour the small tables were spread for the serving of a refreshment course. Contract provided the evening's entertainment, with Miss Mary Nau taking first prize, and the bride-elect winning second.

Guests at the lovely party were Mrs. W. V. Spron, Miss Lois Spaulding, Mrs. Harold Hager of Altadena; Mrs. Fred Alexander of Los Angeles; Mrs. J. Marlow Coleman of Palo Alto; Mrs. R. C. Smedley, Mrs. Alex Brownridge, Miss Susanne Alexander, Miss Natalie Neff, Miss Betty Hill, Miss Martha Tutill, Miss Mary Tutill, Miss Mary Nau and Miss Smedley.

YULE LUNCHEON ENJOYED BY CLUB MEMBERS

Gaiety prevailed at a pleasant Christmas party enjoyed Tuesday afternoon by members of the Mayflower club when they gathered for a festive luncheon at Daniger's.

Red and white cellophane flowers and lovely tall red tapers decorated the lovely table, with favors for each guest. Later at a blue and silver Christmas tree gifts were exchanged, and each one discovered the identity of her mystery sister of the year.

Present to enjoy the affair, which was supervised by Mrs. Carl Fisher, were Mrs. Edward Cochems, Mrs. C. W. Copeland, Mrs. Fannie Cunningham, Mrs. Carl Fisher, Mrs. Ray Ford, Mrs. E. E. Frisby, Mrs. William Mary, Mrs. Jack Patterson, Mrs. A. T. Perkins, Mrs. J. W. Parkinson, Mrs. Clyde Rowland.

Mrs. Robert Smith, Mrs. J. D. Sanborn, Mrs. Fred Sanford, Mrs. Dora Sykes, Mrs. Harvey Springer, Mrs. A. C. Weiler, Mrs. V. C. Weiler, Mrs. J. W. Parkinson, and two guests, Mrs. Higday and Mrs. Henderson.

MRS. ARNOLD HOSTESS FOR LUNCHEON

Opening her lovely home at 1424 West Third street, Mrs. C. Arnold was a charming hostess yesterday afternoon to a group of friends for a delightful noon luncheon.

Guests were seated at small tables centered with miniature Christmas trees, and Mrs. Mabel Harney, Mrs. Alta Woodward, daughters of the hostess, assisted her in the serving of a delicious menu. Other decorations throughout the home were in appropriate gay Yuletide colors.

The playing of contract filled the afternoon hours, at the conclusion of which Mrs. Arnold awarded a high prize to Mrs. Edith Snow, second to Mrs. Roy Ivins and consolation to Mrs. Molly Ballers.

Others present for the pleasant party were Mrs. Mae Farrar, Mrs. E. F. Museum, Mrs. E. F. Perkins, Mrs. E. A. B. Smith, Mrs. Alvin Newmont, Mrs. Margaret Church, Mrs. N. Zernan and Mrs. Anna James.

X. N. O. CLUB IS ENTERTAINED

Changing their plans for a Christmas party at the home of Mrs. B. A. Hersey because of the latter's illness, members of X. N. O. club met yesterday at Daniger's for luncheon and later adjourned to the home of Mrs. E. E. Perry, 828 South Barton street, for a social afternoon.

Mrs. M. O. Johnson, dressed in a Santa Claus suit, distributed the gifts which each member had brought, and took contributions for the club's poor family basket. Present at the pleasant affair were the Mesdames E. E. Edwards, R. W. Edwards, H. R. Trott, Frank Dance, Stanley Hardin, R. A. McPhee, A. R. Bennett, M. O. Johnson and E. E. Perry.

MRS. COLLIER IS HOSTESS

Mrs. E. B. Collier was a gracious hostess to El Paseo Tiempo club yesterday afternoon at her home, 117 East Washington street. Lovely Christmas decorations graced the luncheon table, and the red and green colors were repeated in prize wrappings.

Members present were Mrs. Nannie Belle Lester, Mrs. Carl Klett, Mrs. L. M. Banks, Mrs. P. C. Dietter, Mrs. Charles Borchard, Mrs. H. W. Low, Mrs. J. F. Murphy and a guest substitute, Mrs. E. C. Hyde of Minnesota.

Coffee was originally used by the Arabians to keep them awake during the long Mohammedan religious exercises.

Bride's Gifts Are Shown At Tea

Adding an especially pleasant touch to the many festivities attendant upon the wedding this evening of Miss Marjorie Lindsay and Preston Sprague, was the informal tea at which Mrs. A. J. Lasby, mother of the bride-elect, entertained yesterday afternoon.

Inspiration for the affair was the displaying of Miss Lindsay's lovely wedding gifts and trousseau to the close friends of her own and her father's, an event which would not have been possible this evening because the formal wedding reception is to be held at the new Presbyterian church after the ceremony there.

Of particular interest was the handsome teakwood chest filled with treasures from the Orient which was acquired by Mr. and Mrs. Lasby on their world tour last May, and which arrived just yesterday after it had been given up for lost because of the war.

Miss Lindsay wore a beautiful hostess gown with the black satin trousers and pale green brocade coat that was her mother's special gift.

Other outstanding gifts that occasioned many admiring comments were a patchwork quilt that had been made by her 84-year-old grandmother, and an exquisite piece of brocade woven and printed by Miss Lindsay's great grandfather in Scotland in 1832.

Assisting in greeting the 50 guests who called, and in serving tea, were Mrs. George Munro, Mrs. John Bower and Miss Catherine McKinley. The honoree herself presided behind the tea urn.

EMPLOYEES HAVE GAY PARTY

Gay with Christmas decorations and a beautiful tree decked with gifts, the Gonzales hotel provided the scene of the annual J. C. Penney company Yuletide dinner party for more than 50 employees and their families Tuesday evening.

After eating a turkey dinner, members of the store staff and the audience was entertained with a program from radio station KJCP of Delhi. Well-known personalities of the screen and airways contributed their talent for the show's success.

Those appearing were Martha Raye, Virginia Swearingen, Fritzie Lish, Tommy Cole, Edward G. Robinson, Noah Wisley, Joan Davis, Dorothy Gibson, Jean Hersholt, Guy Miller, Mae West, Geneva Elmer, Zazu Pitts, Gladys May, Steppin Fetchit, Mr. Cooter, Charlie Chan, Joe Cleda, Andy Devine, W. C. Fields, Phil Harris, Charlie Bright, the O'Keefe brothers, Jess Quigley and Harley Babcock.

Bobby Jones gave a piano solo, Shirley Arterburn a tap dance, and Paul Vogel performed the duties of distributing the amusing gifts as Santa Claus. Dancing occupied the remaining portion of the evening. F. A. Jones, manager of the local Penney store, presided as host throughout the evening.

HOLIDAYS ARE CELEBRATED BY CLASS

Members of the Two-in-One class of the First Methodist church enjoyed their annual Christmas celebration on Monday evening, beginning with a 6:30 p. m. dinner at Daniger's cafe.

About 80 members and guests were present for the lovely affair, and decorations on the tables were of tall red tapers, bowls of bright holly and frosted miniature trees as placecards. Russell Lutes presided as master of ceremonies, introducing the speakers.

There was a musical program, following which the group sang carols, and gifts were exchanged. Special guests at the party were Mr. and Mrs. Will Spencer of Pasadena and the Rev. James Hughes of San Diego, former teacher of the class.

On the committee to arrange the party were Mr. and Mrs. R. I. Matthews, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Randall, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Vogt, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Ulrich, Dr. and Mrs. T. P. McKee, Mr. and Mrs. George Faries and Mrs. Ruth Walker.

RIDING CLUB HAS YULE PARTY

With another gay social evening following close on a buffet supper party given in their honor Tuesday evening, Boot 'n' Spur Riding club members held their annual Christmas party last night at the home of Mrs. Lucile Frazier, 2015 Bush street.

Informality characterized the evening, with a lucky prize going to Helen Mabe. Present were Marie La Brucherie, Lillie Forsberg, Delphina Lopez, Harriet Jones, Pauline Ducker, Dorothy Smith, Melissa Peacock, Georgia Lewis, Esther Runnels, Fabiola Ortiz, Katherine Smith, Genevieve Camel, Helen Mabe and the hostess.

GROUP ENJOYS HARDTIME PARTY

Mrs. Roy Dimmock, 2102 Oak street, was hostess at her home at a delightful buffet supper and hardtime party Wednesday evening.

Many jolly games were played by the group, which included Mr. and Mrs. Joe Daniger, Mrs. Louise Stewart, Mrs. Nettie Detwiler, Miss Lois Detwiler, Miss Mabel Anderson, Miss Shirley Howard, Oscar Eup, Donald Bratt, J. D. Cross, Elmer Casey and Mr. and Mrs. Dimmock.

Mary Stoddard Jack Insists He Doesn't Condemn All Women; Wants Home and Children

Today brings another installment in the life of "Jack," who started a free-for-all in the column several weeks back as regards selfish, indolent wives and down-trodden, disillusioned husbands.

No, Jack is not a "jellyfish," as one man correspondent admonished him, and he's not so disillusioned with women that he does not only hope, but actually expects, to have another wife some day and a real home of his own. His letter follows:

Dear Miss Stoddard: When I wrote that letter to you about the boys, many of whom were drifting there and everywhere because they were nursing broken hearts because of broken homes and children they love but cannot see—I knew I would get a lot of kick-back letters.

Well, I did, but it so happens that all of these letters criticizing me and the men in the same boat with me came from fine women, this country's better wives—women who really mean what they write and practice what they preach.

All of the power in the world to the women who really love their husbands. Such a woman really can and does keep her man and they will always have more of happiness than unhappiness. All she needs to know is that a woman can either make or break a man.

Don't get me wrong, ladies—I do not judge all women by the way my former wife treated me. But I want to ask all of you readers one thing: Don't you think the letter I wrote and the answers I got back should be read and discussed by the women who do break up homes?

I am not a "jelly-fish" type and I want a good wife and a business of my own and I'm going to have them some of these days. Thanks a lot for the answers and may I wish you all the season's greetings. Sincerely, JACK.

Well, thanks, Jack, for writing us your reactions. Perhaps you don't realize it but this last letter of yours seems far more optimistic than any of the previous ones. It might be that all of these letters from wives and mothers who are loyally staying by their matrimonial vows and making the most of them even in a bad deal might have had some good effect upon you.

At any rate your determination to have a real wife, a real home and a business is a fine constructive goal and if you work with that in mind I know you will have all three and the best of luck to you.

EDISON WOMEN HAVE YEARLY PARTY

Members of the Edison women's committee and their guests met at Knott's Berry place last night for their annual Christmas party, devoted to Christmas charity and a gay social evening.

Miss Katherine Goodrich of Santa Ana, Miss Winnie Grabbill and Miss Mary Louise Johnson of Fullerton were in charge of arrangements. They carried out the seasonal motif with tall tapers, point-set and garlanded streamers on the table. Clever Christmas candy place cards were used.

Since the charitable work this year had been for tubercular and permanent wards of the Orange county hospital, a talk by Mrs. Mabel Dixon of the hospital staff on her work as teacher of children there was especially interesting. Following the dinner, a realistic Santa Claus distributed gifts.

Sue Goddard, Katherine Goodrich and Hazel King, new members of the committee, were introduced, and Irene Drott McLean of Wilmington and Dorothy Rose Young of Orange were welcomed as guests. Mrs. Jeannette I. Rees of the Los Angeles office, chairman of all Southern California committees, was guest of honor.

Entertainment included two selections by Harry Welsh of Fullerton, who accompanied himself at the piano; a ventriloquist act by T. J. Johnson of Brea, and accordion selections played by Miss Hagar Hartman.

ECONOMICS SECTION HAS LUNCHEON

Observing their semi-annual custom, half the members of Ebel's Fifth Household Economics section entertained the others for a delightful noon luncheon in the Lakewood Country Club Tuesday.

The clubhouse had been decorated with red and green drapings and a heap of gifts lay at the bottom of a large decorated Christmas tree. These were later distributed to the members. Mrs. L. E. Allen, section leader, led a short business meeting, appointing Mrs. Tarver Montgomery as program chairman for the remainder of the year.

Mrs. George Raymer won first prize in the contract game, and Mrs. H. C. Kirk was awarded second. Mrs. F. E. Mead won a door prize, and Mrs. Glenn Warner was a special guest.

Happy Birthday

Today The Journal congratulates the following on the anniversary of their birthdays: MRS. ANNA FELDER, 638 East Almond avenue, Orange. BRUCE RAGAN, 1320 Martha Lane.

LUTHER E. MILLER, 483 Pacific avenue, Tustin. MRS. ARNOLD LUND, 826 North Lowell street. And for yesterday to: VELMA WATSON, Route 4, Box 145.

All Day Yule Affair Is Enjoyed

Inaugurating a novel idea for Christmas festivity, members of Mrs. B. J. MacMullen's Fortnightly Bridge club met yesterday at her lovely new home on Heliotrope drive for an all-day session.

Contract during the afternoon hours was followed by a gift exchange around the lovely tree with its iridescent blue ornaments, and later the dozen members were joined by husbands and guests for supper.

An all-white and crystal motif was carried out at the dinner-table and later more bridge was played, with high score prize going to L. G. Swales.

Present, in addition to the husbands who came late, were Mrs. L. G. Swales, Mrs. Howard Rapp, Mrs. H. T. Dunning, Mrs. Will Flood of Pasadena, Mrs. Marguerite Borgmeyer, Mrs. Sara J. Haddon, Mrs. A. I. Melanthin, Mrs. Mark Lacy, Mrs. R. C. Hoiles, Mrs. H. B. Van Dien, Mrs. H. H. Harwood of Los Angeles, and Mrs. MacMullen's house guest, Mrs. R. C. Harrison of Des Moines, who drove west with the MacMullens last week.

MRS. COULTER IS HOSTESS

Mrs. F. E. Coulter, 826 South Ross street, was a gracious hostess yesterday noon, entertaining a group of local people at a charming luncheon in the Spanish atmosphere of the Padua Hills tea room, in conjunction with the little theater at Claremont.

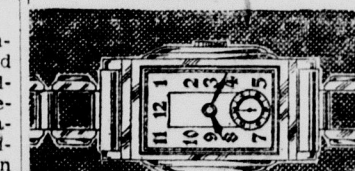

Guests at the intimate luncheon party were the Rev. and Mrs. O. Scott McFarland, the Rev. and Mrs. Harry Evan Owings, and Miss Lula Minter.

Postponement of the bridge tea scheduled for tomorrow afternoon at Santa Ana Country club was announced today because of the press of social events during the holiday season. The party will be held in January.

At the same time announcement was made of a special kiddies Christmas party on Thursday, Dec. 23, from 2 to 4 o'clock. Mrs. Riley Huber is in charge of the affair, and asks that each child bring a gift to be exchanged.

The club's junior dance will be held Wednesday, Dec. 22.

Sorority Has Gay Yule Party

For their annual Christmas celebration, members of Sigma Tau Psi sorority gathered last evening in the home of their president, Miss Fern Berkner, at 2341 Riverside drive, where the Christmas spirit was exemplified by many bright decorations.

Bright wreaths, red bells and bowls of cotoneaster were used throughout the rooms. The group enjoyed a dinner prepared by Miss Genevieve Glover at tables centered with bowls of cotoneaster and green and red candles.

During a business meeting, members completed plans for the formal dinner dance at the Biltmore Bowl Saturday night. A Christmas tree was loaded with many lovely gifts, which were distributed by Miss Ruth Mary Reichstein, dressed as a Santa Claus. Announcement was made that Wyle Carlyle won the annual Christmas raffle.

Formal initiation ceremonies were conducted for Miss Ruth Mary Reichstein and Miss Mary Hibbert. Informal games arranged by the pledges completed the evening.

In the group were Mrs. Eugene Anderson, Mrs. Max Wilson, Mrs. Lee Hasenjaeger, Mrs. Don Harrison, Mrs. L. E. Holmes, Mrs. Leland Alsip, Mrs. Thomas Jentges, Mrs. Edward Sugden, Mrs. Fayette Birtcher, Mrs. W. W. Barnett, Miss Dorothy Skinner, Miss Eleanor Evans, Miss Jane Hill, Miss Fern Berkner, Miss Genevieve Glover, Miss Betty Marston, Miss Jean Barry, Miss Charlotte Barker, Miss Vivian Coffman, Miss Virginia Graves, Miss Bobbie Jenkins, and two pledges, Miss Jean Wallace and Miss Lois Mae Stockton.

About Folks

Mrs. Edwin Palm, 810 Halladay street, a patient in the Santa Ana Valley hospital for the past 10 days, has returned home.

Mrs. E. C. Hyde of Fairmont, Minn., is the houseguest of Mrs. Nannie Belle Lester, 1121 North Sycamore street, and will spend the winter here and in Long Beach.

Raymond Nowotny will arrive Dec. 18 from Arizona University to spend two weeks' vacation at his home, 1005 West Sixth street, with his mother, Mrs. Alvin Nowotny.

Miss Lucille Griset was expected today to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gaston B. Griset, for a month. She is on holiday from the University of California.

Mrs. Ellen Howe, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Davis, and N. E. Meister drove to Hollywood Tuesday to hear the Eddie Cantor broadcast.

F. W. Briney of Atwood, Kan., is the houseguest of his brother, and the Misses Olive and Bertha Briney.

Lola Sanblom of Glendale, well-known poet, was guest of Miss Ethel Walker, city librarian, Wednesday. Her most recently published volume was "Silk Purses."

Robert Pankey, Santa Ana student now a sophomore at Pomona college, was this week initiated into Sigma Tau fraternity, one of the leading social fraternities on the Claremont campus.

Miss Clarice Miller, 806 South Broadway, is recuperating nicely at St. Joseph's hospital following an appendectomy which she underwent last Saturday.

KVOE

Notes of interest for the local audience. These program notes are in addition to the Mutual Network feature on KVOE. Comments on above in Tom E. Danson's column.

The alarm clock is back as an institution in the home of Gay Sabrook, petite screen and stage favorite of twenty on "This Side of Twenty" on KVOE daily at 8:15 to 8:30 a. m. "This Side of Twenty" formerly was broadcast at 4:45 to 5 p. m. But, times change, and the alarm clock compels attention in favor of listeners who dial in the popular feature.

Although "Sara," faithful housekeeper of the Adams family in Mutual Don Lee Network's "House Unlabeled" on KVOE Monday through Friday at 11:15 a. m., has "lived" in Fairhaven all her life, she was not an American citizen until last week.

"Sara" (in private life Vangie Bielby) appeared in a Los Angeles court and was granted full citizenship. Born in London, Miss Bielby has spent most of her life touring in England and Canada, coming to Hollywood and radio two years ago.

Conrad Thibault, who is just about the favorite baritone with a majority of listeners, is a football, baseball and hockey fan, plays tennis and enjoys horseback riding and golfing. He also does a bit of singing, especially on tonight's Musical Moments feature, with Vic Arden and his 34-piece orchestra, Irene Beasley, the songsmith and Graham McNamee. KVOE, at 8:45.

Eb and Zeb had a difficult time getting their stove in their Corn Center store set up for the winter. After the job had been completed, they had to take it apart again to get Miss Beebe's parrot, which had crawled into the pipe. Then, after the stove had been assembled a second time, Eb threw a lighted match into it, unthinkingly. Zeb had left a can of gasoline there. Result: The stove had to be put together a second time. Tonight's episode will begin the production of Miss Beebe's moving picture, "The Perfect Lover." "Eb and Zeb" are heard on KVOE Monday through Fridays at 8:30 p. m.

A program that once came to you on Sunday afternoon is now being heard from KVOE tomorrow and every Friday hereafter at 3:45 p. m. This program is "World Affairs," featuring the very prominent commentator, formerly of the Columbia School of the Air, Raymond Gram Swing. Mr. Swing was very popular in the East, when his program first started, being released by Mutual and Don Lee networks to the West. International politics is a specialty with Mr. Swing.

'Trouble-Shooter' Kennedy Tonight!

By TOM E. DANSON

Joseph E. Kennedy, newly named United States Ambassador to Great Britain, will make his first radio appearance since his appointment when he appears on the "Commentary Forum," to be heard over the Mutual-Don Lee network, via KVOE, tonight at 8 o'clock.

Kennedy, who is also the chairman of the United States Maritime Commission and who is chief "troubleshooter" for the Administration, will have a significant message for the radio audience which will be of special interest in view of his recent assignment to act as envoy to the Court of St. James.

The civic achievements of Binghamton, important New York manufacturing, agricultural and dairying center, will be described by Major Bowes when he designates it his "Honor City" in his Amateur Hour broadcast over the KNX-Columbia network tonight, from 6:00 to 7:00 p. m. Listeners in southeastern New York State may vote for their favorites among the Major's entertainers by calling Binghamton 8-7211, the number of the exchange being especially set up for that purpose.

Alan Hale, one of Hollywood's busiest character actors, will take time from a heavy studio schedule to appear with Eliza Schallert on her motion picture review program tonight from 8:15 to 8:30 p. m., over KECA the NBC-Blue Network.

Hale is cast as "Little John" in the "Adventures of Robin Hood," repeating the part in which he gained prominence when the silent version of the same story was filmed.

Hale's career began when he made a feature for the old Biograph Company, and he has appeared in many of the greatest successes of silent and sound films. For several years he was a director for Fox and DeMille productions.

Mrs. Schallert will interview Hale, and she will complete the first production of "Robin Hood" with the present filming of the story of England's legendary outlaw.

More than 5000 members of Gene and Glenn radio club, with headquarters at Cleveland, are preparing for a huge Christmas this year, despite the fact the two stars are on the Pacific Coast.

"Gene and Glenn Gah," the publication of the club, is soon to appear in the "Pittsburgh Courier" with literary efforts contributed by friends of the two boys all over the nation.

Gene and Glenn are currently heard over KFI at 8:15 a. m. and at 4:45 p. m. every week day. Their "endurance" broadcasts are being presented over KFI on Saturday nights from 10:00 p. m. until contributions cease. For the last two programs, the boys have remained before the microphone until 4 a. m. and have raised more than $2300 for the needy.

With Jimmy Stewart as master of ceremonies, the following film satillies will be featured on December 16 broadcast of "Good News of 1938": Spencer Tracy, Freddie Bartholomew, Fannie Brice, Frank Morgan, Cora Witherspoon, Judy Garland, Betty Jaynes, Douglas McPhail and Eddie Adams. THE MOUNTAIN BOYS

By PAUL WEBB

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS

By JOHN HIX

DAY OF MYSTERY...
On May 12, 1780, New England was plunged into a strange darkness which lasted from 10 a. m. until nightfall—yet, strange as it seems, its cause has never been fully explained.

The darkness was so obscure in many sections that work was halted, birds went to roost and domestic fowl acted as during an eclipse. There were no clouds reported seen, although a light rain fell. A general feeling of alarm spread over the countryside and many superstitious premonitions were attached to the phenomenon.

Attempts at explanation have identified the darkness as result-from a Canadian forest fire or drifting volcanic ash from an unrecorded eruption, such as occurred in 1883 after the eruption of Krakatoa.

W. F. Cody (Buffalo Bill) is buried in a grave blasted from solid rock on Lookout mountain, near Denver.

Homes for Sale 42

YOU CAN AFFORD THIS FIVE-ROOM HOME

Located on a lot 60x135, in a community of owner-occupied new homes, it has everything to make a house beautiful. Living room has fireplace, is 13x21 in size, with two doors opening into what can be an elegant patio. The hallway contains two very large linen closets, with an extra amount of storage space in each. The two bedrooms are 13x14 and contain very large closets in each. There are three rooms besides in each of these rooms, affording perfect ventilation. The dinette connects to the living room by French doors and opens into one of the most convenient kitchens imaginable. The sink, ventilated stove space, recessed and built-in ice box space, and cupboard space for a much larger house than this. The service porch is 8x10, with laundry tub built in, connections for washer and ironer, and a large broom closet. Double garage and cement driveway complete the buildings. Water is only $1.00 per month, with no meter. Entire place can be bought for $10,000, or can be bought in your rent alone will make it more than worth your while to save. Ed L. Holmes, Realtor, 423 N. Sycamore, City, or phone Westminster 8361.

Kidnap Feared in

Disappearance of

Woman in Laguna

Possibility that Mrs. Rocena Beck Williams, wife of the assistant postmaster of Palm Springs, may have been kidnaped from Laguna Beach when she mysteriously disappeared a week ago was expressed today by her father, Raymond A. Beck, of Los Angeles. Beck added, "I only hope to God she is not dead."

"My daughter knew no one in Laguna, Beck said. Mrs. Williams' automobile, with her purse containing all the money she carried was located 24 hours after her disappearance by Laguna police. A note in the car told authorities she was the wife of the assistant postmaster, Merritt Williams, at Palm Springs.

A clue reached the local police office today that Mrs. Williams may have boarded a bus for San Diego about 8:30 Thursday evening, according to H. D. Allanson, who is assisting in the police department during the police chief's absence through illness.

No further clues of the possible whereabouts of the woman are known.

Ousted Citrus

Sales Problem

Where can we sell our oranges? That question bothered members of the Central Orange County Citrus exchange today, as the group found itself on the outside of the California Fruit Growers exchange.

Ousted yesterday on grounds of "repeated, flagrant violations of their contracts . . . followed by failure to comply with repeated requests for an accounting of shipments," the Anaheim exchange indicated it might announce a course of action in a few days.

The ousted exchange is composed of the Anaheim Community Growers and the Associated Anaheim Growers. Three other pack-houses in the group withdrew last summer and joined other exchanges.

A recent check of southbound motor traffic entering West Palm Beach, Fla., showed 20 per cent of the automobiles carried baggage and out-of-state license tags.

Meet 'Mr. T. M.'

If you're a typical U. S. motorist (and most of us are), chances are you've never been able to plough through the confusion of taxes sufficiently to add up your share of the levies paid on the old bus and its operation.

We have at hand some figures on the situation which won't make you any happier. The American Petroleum Industries committee, of New York, has designed the "Typical U. S. Motorist" and pictures his taxation plight this way:

Mr. Typical Motorist earns from $25 to $30 a week. He owns a car valued at $200. Three out of five Typical Motorists never have bought a new car.

Mr. T. M. pays $30 gasoline taxes annually and $20 in other automotive taxes. This $50-a-year extra overhead adds up to this: Mr. T. M. works 10 eight-hour days a year to pay his auto taxes. And he uses his auto only 40 eight-hour days per year! And, to add a bit of salt to the wound, $1 of every $6 paid in auto taxes is diverted from road funds.

The gasoline tax burden for the current year (estimated at $972,000,000) will be equivalent to approximately seven per cent of the nation's total industrial payrolls. Gasoline and other automotive taxes account for approximately 12 per cent of the total taxes collected by the federal, state, county and other taxing jurisdictions in the entire country.

The committee points out the moral behind all this arithmetic: "Basic economic relationships indicate that if taxes absorb too great a share of the fruits of productive activity, the average citizen—who earns from $20 to $30 a week—will have less to spend and that industry, usually considered the mainspring of the nation's economic life, will be slowed up.

Hollywood protests radio rumors and half-truths. There is a question as to whether the whole truth would be any more satisfactory.

A Year of Big News

Whatever else is to be said about 1937, it will generally be agreed to be a year of outstanding news events. Already, editors and press association executives are putting out lists of the 10 greatest news stories. For the most part these tally rather closely. In fact, on seven items practically all critics are unanimous, namely:

1. The Japanese-Chinese war.
2. The supreme court controversy, including Black appointment.
3. The dirigible Hindenburg disaster.
4. Labor warfare, including the C. I. O.-A. F. L. struggle and steel and motors strikes.
5. New London, Tex., school explosion, killing 400 pupils.
6. Wedding of Duke of Windsor and Mrs. Simpson.
7. Disappearance of Amelia Earhart.

From there on, news men differ. Among stories suggested for the other three places on the list of 10 are these: Mediterranean crisis arising out of Spanish civil war; Stalin's purge of enemies in Soviet Russia; Mussolini's visit to Hitler and anti-communism pact; recent business recession; coronation of King George.

The year was marked by many deaths of notables, including John D. Rockefeller, Andrew Mellon, Ramsay MacDonald, Senator Joseph T. Robinson, Jean Harlow, Marconi, Sir Austen Chamberlain, Edith Wharton, Sir James Barrie.

All in all, it was a year to remember.

The present slowdown is not a setback, says Henry Ford. We must be sure also not to mistake every upturn for a comeback.

Beyond Life

A citizen who was pronounced "clinically dead" for five minutes returned to this mortal coil to report that in the period called death he had "floated into a warm, friendly place."

The jokesters have already speculated with the thought that the "place" didn't have time to turn on its full heat in the five minutes allotted, and that it might have seemed not so friendly if the clinically defunct citizen had stayed on for another 10 minutes or so.

Leaving that aspect of the case aside, there is ground for serious speculation and interest in the fact that the hero of the five-minute tragedy returned to life with any sensation to report.

For if that "bourne from which no traveler returns" provides for the "departed" a sense of existence in any form whatsoever, why, that is immortality.

Christmas Trees

It's a fine thing that a lot of men can make money harvesting the northwest Christmas trees. It's still finer that this is being done under state and government supervision, so that acres of potential timber are not destroyed.

Time was when the ruthless Christmas slashing ruined fine stands of timber. Now it is being done so that the cutting serves as thinning of young forests, so that other trees may grow straighter and faster.

Industry should be encouraged—but the government should crack down hard on any persons who violate these conservation rules.

WASHINGTON.—In its search for the fountain of youth, the Republican party seems to be going back East. Instead of West, where all ambitious young men once were advised to go.

Within the last few days a number of Republican voices have been raised, but they have come from the East. Governor Aiken of rocky old Vermont is now followed by Neighbor Murphy, the governor of New Hampshire. Luke Aiken, he wants a purge of the stuffed shirts.

The death knell for the old reactionaries has been sounded," he says, "and young and progressive men should be placed in charge."

Other young Republicans heard from recently include Senators Lodge of Massachusetts and Bridges of New Hampshire.

These young men of the East are providing the yeast of hope.

TOO EARLY TO JUDGE

But it is too early to judge whether anything will happen or whether, if anything does happen, it will be more than a mere change of faces. Last year the party went to Kansas for its candidate. But not much of the Kansas idea was allowed to stay in the campaign, and the party wound up standing four-square on the most conservative position that it was possible for a handful of Liberty Leaguers to devise. The party went for its candidate, but not for its ideas. It had plenty of warning that it was out of step with the country, but the warning was ignored.

Neither is there any too much hope in the favorites now mentioned to head the proposed policy committee of 100.

One mentioned is former Governor Lowden of Illinois, who was in his prime 20 years ago. He is old now, and while a distinguished figure, he could offer little inspiration and fresh guidance to a bewildered party that needs to move ahead. His address at the Springfield Grassroots convention in 1933 showed that.

CAN'T OFFER FRESH ENERGY

Another mentioned is John H. Wiggins, also good in his day, an authority on the law of evidence, but a man of 74 years and now retired from the post of the dean of the Law School at Northwestern university and unable to offer the fresh energy that the situation demands.

A younger businessman, John D. Biggers of Toledo, also is mentioned but with some reservations. He is a Republican and in many ways just the man for the job. But he is directing the administration's census of unemployment, which gives him a dangerous taint in the minds of some Republicans.

If the party wants a man ripe with the years, there is William Allen White. He did a lot for Theodore Roosevelt. His head is gray but he still has young ideas. He is a man who has made a better campaign if he had listened more to Bill White. But White is out. He and Chairman John Hamilton have a longstanding feud.

STEREOTYPED SPEECHES

Almost every Republican who speaks for publication now says that the party must be progressive. That sounds up and coming and suggests a change of policy toward something more in line with what is expected of government in a modern industrial world. But when you say the party must be progressive you are tossing around another one of those trick words that anyone from Hoover to Stalin can appropriate and make it mean anything or nothing. Coolidge used to say the Republican party ought to be as progressive as science. Then he always added—but as conservative as the multiplication table.

Label words have been hurled around so freely in the last few years that the public has become increasingly suspicious of them. They don't even work for Roosevelt the way they used to. It won't get the party anywhere to dig out some of the old literature of the Liberty league and go through it inserting the word "progressive" and something about "social justice" will every other paragraph. It will be to be more specific than that.

And the Republican policy-framers would do well to heed the suggestion of Chief Justice Hughes from the supreme court bench the other day. A power company attorney was attacking the Roosevelt power policy. In his reverence he raised his voice until he was practically shouting.

Chief Justice Hughes leaned forward and said: "Will you restrain your voice? If will help your argument."

MM-M!

"Pardon me," said the stranger, "are you a resident here?"

"Yes," was the answer. "I've been here goin' on 50 years. What kin I do for you?"

"I am looking for a criminal lawyer," said the man. "Have you any here?"

"Well," said the other, "We're pretty sure we have, but we can't prove it."

Robert Squires, deputy sheriff, was shot through the head and instantly killed this morning when a desperate criminal who criminally assaulted the daughter of a nearby rancher resisted arrest by a posse of citizens and officers.

The killer, still unidentified, is lying at the local morgue, his body riddled with bullets from the posse which finally avenged the death of Squires and the wounding of Deputy Sheriff "Doc" Stacey, Al Prather and William Culver.

The posse searched all last night for the attacker of the little girl, and it was believed Squires had come upon him from the rear before the man fired his fatal blast at the deputy.

That Horace Kearney, aviator, and Chester Lawrence, newspaper man, who left Newport harbor Saturday night in an airplane bound for San Francisco on a daring non-stop flight, have perished is now the belief of even those who were most optimistic. News came that Kearney's plane had dropped out of sight in the mist off Point Firmin Saturday evening as messages received to-day all the way along the course announced nothing has been heard of the aviator and his passenger.

Glenn L. Martin, who went in search of the missing aviator, barely escaped death when his plane was forced to make a landing on a story sea north of Newport harbor.

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

Britain, France yield in Europe to concentrate on far east crisis; no FDR message on relief needs till March; admits billion too low; ex-treasurer man, linked to liquor deal, turns up safe in coal job; FDR's press aide, wary of phone calls, almost gets into jam.

WASHINGTON.—Confidential reports regarding the recent French and British conversations in London have leaked back to official quarters here, and indicate that the two democracies want a lot further toward changing the map of Europe than appeared in the press dispatches.

Most important parts of their understanding were:

1. Austria, it was decided, was to join with Germany eventually, and there was nothing Britain and France could do to stop it. Therefore, it was better to tell the Germans this in advance and keep them occupied with the Anschluss, thus giving the ex-Allies a chance to concentrate on the Far East.

2. Czechoslovakia, it was decided, should be asked to revamp its constitution so as to give greater freedom to German minorities, thus easing the tension between that country and Germany.

3. Ethiopia, now being Italian in fact, it was considered best to recognize this officially.

4. Franco, now being in control of most of Spain, should be recognized in the near future.

All of this, it was believed, would ease the tension in Western Europe so that France and Britain could do something about Japanese aggression in the Far East. This was one factor behind the sending of French cruisers to Indo-Chinese waters, and the British pledge to send ships eastward in the near future.

Note—Last summer the British wanted to send ships to the Orient but feared to weaken their naval forces in the Mediterranean and the Baltic.

SPECIAL RELIEF BUDGET
The bad news on the 1938 relief appropriation will not be included in the regular budget to be sent to Congress Jan. 3.

The President definitely has decided to follow last winter's course and withhold relief estimates for a special message in March. Two reasons are behind this strategy:

First, to slow time for the development of back-home demands for jobless aid. With unemployment rolls mounting steadily, state and local authorities, who are bearing the brunt of the clamor for relief, will soon be turning the screws on their senators and congressmen to loosen federal purse-strings thus offsetting the pressure for economy and budget balancing.

Second, Roosevelt is still uncertain as to how much relief money to ask for. Early in October, when he started working on the new budget, he tentatively fixed the WPA item at $1,000,000,000—a $500,000,000 slash under this year's appropriation. But much has happened in the last two months.

Unemployment is 25 to 50 per cent greater than at this time last year, and all signs point to continued heavy layoffs.

Last December, WPA rolls totaled 2,398,000; rose to 3,000,000 in February. But under the current budget only 1,949,000 can be fed without going into the red.

The President and his inner council are agreed that his original $1,000,000,000 figure now is out of the question. But he wants the spurring for more money to come from outside administration quarters. In other words, Roosevelt is playing a waiting game.

He is aware that such a policy is fraught with grave political and economic dangers. But vividly remembering the kicking around he got on Capitol Hill last session, he is determined to force Congress to move first for more spending.

POLITICAL DRAG
This may be the New Deal, but political drag still pays. Take the case of Earl E. Moore, until recently internal revenue collector at Cleveland, Ohio.

Several years ago, Moore joined with two other treasury employees to sell liquor to Ohio state stores. The other officials were William G. Harper, chief secret service agent in Cleveland, and Clifford W. Pollock, chief deputy collector of customs in the same city. The venture proved very profitable, netting the group more than $10,000 each.

Through an expose by the Cleveland Press, Secretary Morgenthau got wind of the affair and jerked the officials on the carpet for violating a treasury regulation prohibiting employees from engaging in liquor business. They admitted the facts and Morgenthau was preparing to fire them when Ohio's senior Senator Robert Bulkley turned on the political screws.

Moore had been his campaign manager and Pollock also was a close ally.

A compromise was reached whereby the three men agreed to turn their profits over to charity. They were allowed to retain their jobs.

Several months ago Morgenthau sent an agent to Cleveland to see if they had made good their part of the bargain. They had not. Morgenthau sent a peremptory demand that they pay up or get out.

Pollock, pleading that he no longer had his share of the profits, saved his hide by promising to pay in monthly installments. He was allowed to stay on.

Harper shot back that he had not violated any law, and refused to pay or quit. He was fired.

Moore neither paid nor was fired. Before Morgenthau could crack down he resigned his treasury job and showed up behind the desk of the director of the Cleveland branch of the bituminous coal commission. This placed him safely out of reach of Morgenthau and the penalties slapped on his associates.

So Moore was able to eat his cake and have it too.

Political drag sure is a nice cookie—if you can get it.

Note—Senator Bulkley, in recommending Moore for the coal commission, avoided mention of the treasury's censure.

The Mailbag

Public opinion, or what somebody in office imagines to be public opinion, is our ruler. If public opinion is active, the politicians and people sit up and take notice. There is a definite need for outspokenness and thinking on public matters. Honest, intelligent fair discussion of our problems is immensely useful. So that every citizen may have his say and contribute to the formation of public opinion. The Journal invites letters to The Mailbag.

TIRE OF FRACAS
To the Editor: I wish you and Frank Henderson would lay off of Old Man Holles. Sure, he's been razzing the schools without any reason, but what of it? His pieces are so dull and tedious that nobody reads them, hence why worry about them?

The school system is pretty good, and the public is reasonably well satisfied. Let's have something to think about besides the Rugg books and fine spun arguments concerning them.

What Other Editors Say

HOT PLACE IN SUN
Are colonies worth it? Certain small groups in the home countries may reap huge profits from colonial expansion, but the public expense of winning and maintaining colonies is in most cases far greater than the public's gain.

The Italian people were sold on the tremendous risk and expense of the Ethiopian war by the usual arguments of raw materials, markets and room for excess population.

But Italy's new place in the sun is proving hot and uncomfortable. The Times of London reports that Viceroy Rodolfo Graziani has ordered the strictest economy in the Italian administration. The Times dispatch continues:

"There is depression among firms dealing with Ethiopia and all means, lawful and unlawful, are employed in efforts to secure payments. Italian merchants dealing with Ethiopians make no secret of the fact that they are sorry they ever embarked on the business."—New York Post.

McADOO, THE INTERLOPER, BELONGS IN THE EAST

If we remember rightly, we saw something in the papers the other day about Jim Farley coming to California to see if he couldn't do something to bring the various Democratic factions into the same camp.

While disavowing any particular interest in the fight for governor, he appears to be much interested in keeping Senator McAdoo, one of his henchmen in the senate.

McAdoo is an interloper in this state. He has never lived long enough in it to be a true Californian. His chief interest is not the welfare of the state itself, but the political fortunes of Mr. McAdoo, and in the business his law firm can get out of the political pot.

McAdoo should go back East, where he belongs.

He makes a great to do about what he did to obtain an O. K. on the Central Valley water project. As a matter of fact his efforts in behalf of that project did not amount to a tinker's dam. The real credit belongs to Senator Hiram Johnson and others, who did the real work.

McAdoo said "yes" when it was convenient and when he knew votes would be forthcoming in response to his "yes." The real work was done by others.

If we judge sentiment correctly, there are few, even among the Democrats, who have much liking for McAdoo.—Petaluma Argus-Courier.

SALARY ORDINANCE
It is conceivable that some clarification of the county salary ordinance might result from an investigation by the grand jury, as has been suggested by both Supervisor West and some of the elective officers concerned.

The matter has come to a legal issue, the supervisor insisting the ordinance be changed so that elective officers insisting that it is not.

It is improbable that Mr. West and those supervisors supporting him would do anything so sensible as to start over and, under competent legal advice, draft a new ordinance to which there would be no possible objection.

That being out of the question, there remains an appeal to the courts on the validity of the ordinance. That being ascertained, the public will know whether to give heed to the elective officers or to the windy eloquence of Mr. West and his press agent.—Orange Daily News.

I'll Tell You

By BOB BURNS

I don't suppose I'll ever get used to the custom the society people out here have of dressing for dinner and I was always a kind of proud of my folks' down home because they never went in for such foolishness.

You could just imagine the shock I had one time when I was havin' my Uncle Thanksgiving dinner at my Uncle Hod's house. About an hour before it was ready, us men folks was all sittin' out on the front porch when Aunt Puncy come to

NEW YORK.—Frank Crowninshield, who knows his social onions, sighs in a recent magazine vignette over the vanishing men about town. The social horizon is no longer dotted with those gallant blades who gave such a zest to the 90's. Elegantes who knew manners, wines and ladies.

Men, indeed, such as Ward McAllister, Herman Celrichs, Oliver H. P. Belmont, C. O. H. Smith, Stanford White, Sydney Smith, W. K. Vanderbilt and Reginald Rives. All creatures of wealth who rode to hounds, were deft at coaching, yachting and accomplished wits of the club lounge.

There were lots of them. Frank Crowninshield finds that "man about town" means a fellow of an entirely different kidney. He is something of a rounder, with no particular social graces or family background. Often he is celebrated for his candid camera shots and having acquaintance with ladies of the floor show.

Once the label "man about town" was a high compliment, denoting qualities and talents above the average. Now, says Crowninshield, the a. a. t. is more than likely to be the parvenu who wears the wrong clothes, orders the wrong dinners for the wrong women in the wrong French.

Joe Zilch and George Spelvin are two citizens peculiar to New York, living in imagination only. Spelvin, as every theater-goer knows, is the program name for the actor who plays two roles. Spelvin being his listing for the second. The genealogy of Joe Zilch is doubtful, but he symbolizes the fellow who does not mean much in the scheme of things. Sime of Variety was the first person I ever heard speak of Zilch, although I am not certain he was the originator. A capitious hamburger stand near Jack Dempsey's is proprietorship by Zilch and Spelvin. At least those are the names over the entrance.

When meat prices went ballooning recently Frank West listed on his menu: "Sirloin for two $2.50—and not worth the price." Several eating places displayed similar notices. But the New York City eateries reared its head and people who never cared much for steaks began to go for them in a big way. I recall interviewing George Arliss at breakfast many years ago in a Cincinnati dining room making way with a chuck of grilled steak. I noticed the price of the steak at 45 cents, which priced me almost as much as the fixity of the actor's rimless monocle.

Governor Herbert Lehman, perhaps next to Charles G. Dawes, is the most confirmed of the political celebrity pipe smokers. When out doors his goose-necked pipe suggests the Natchez rounding the bend full speed ahead. His long-vetted session of puffing perhaps was the legionsaire parade, when he stood or sat in the reviewing stand for 15 hours, using up tons of tobacco and 10 boxes of matches.

Burgess Meredith has become the theater's prize bloom—historically and socially. A tousled redhead with the face of a Bellows prize-fighter, his clothes, like some of the Sunday suit of a stevedore. Although he is married to an actress of social prominence, he is the chief romantic interest among many of the singing maids who customarily go blarney with the profile of Robert Taylor or the figure of Gary Cooper. But Meredith is immune to the feminine blandishments in his art. One does not attain stardom at his age without such consecration to study.

They were recalling embarrassing moments. The silliest for me was on a Texas ranch when a cowboy drew up alongside a flivver in which Bill Hogg and I were driving. Hogg had been riding me all day about a straw hat with a spectrum-smashing band I was wearing. He thought it sissified. After talking to the cowboy awhile he nodded toward me and grumped: "Meet my niece."
